

Twitter description: WeListen is a grassroots, student organization founded at the University of Michigan bridging the American political divide through conversation.

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: WeListen

Paragraphs: America is Divided; WeListen bridges the political divide through conversation; Who We Are: WeListen is a grassroots, campus-based organization bridging the American political divide.; ; Our Mission: To build empathy across the American political spectrum through conversation.; ; Our Goal: Change the American political climate by building a movement of listeners on campuses across the country.; What We Do; WeListen convenes small-group discussion to humanize the other side; The Problem; America is divided.; Red states and blue states, echo chambers on social media, and a divisive presidential election. Americans can't seem to get along.; Our Solution; WeListen gets people talking. Face to face.; We're fostering small-group discussion between unlikely conversants to change the American political climate-campus by campus.; Our Method; Small-group conversation on campus.; At WeListen, participants from across the political spectrum-Democrats, Republicans, or neither-engage in facilitated discussion (not debate!) on topics like gun control, free speech, abortion, and immigration.; ; They come together to learn why someone might not agree with them, and leave with an enhanced understanding of how individuals' backgrounds and value systems affect how they see the world.; WeListen in the News; Read about our work!; ; Want to feature WeListen in your publication? Contact welistenusa@gmail.com.; Forget the shouting and demonizing: College students organize civil discussions; The Washington Post; March 31, 2019; "So radically simple: Talking-and listening-to people you disagree with"; The Renewal Project; March 25, 2019; "WeListen staff series tackles impact of mass incarceration"; The University Record; January 25, 2019; "'A Painful Hope' attempts to find middle ground in Israeli occupation and Palestinian conflict"; The Michigan Daily; November 15, 2018; "All Ears"; LSA Magazine; October 22, 2018; "This week, we sat in on a WeListen meeting and got student's views on the judiciary system."; The Daily Weekly; October 12, 2018; "WeListen discussion focuses on politicization of Supreme Court"; The Michigan Daily; October 8, 2018; "Ford School panel considers impacts, logistics of November ballot initiatives"; The Michigan Daily; October 8, 2018; "Bipartisan student group WeListen hosts first annual Fall conference";

The Michigan Daily; September 30, 2018; "Bill Kristol, Neera Tanden show divisive politics, future hope at U-M"; The Detroit Free Press; September 30, 2018; "UM students work to bridge political divide, foster civil dialogue"; Michigan Radio; September 28, 2018; "Conference at UMich to address gun control, immigration, free speech"; MLive; September 28, 2018; "WeListen staff series works to cultivate respectful conversations"; The University Record; August 21, 2018; "Meet the students leading tough dialogue at University of Michigan"; All about Ann Arbor; May 17, 2018; "The launch of WeListen: Students foster civil civic discourse between unlikely conversants"; The Ford School of Public Policy; December 12, 2017; WeListen in the News; Read about our work!; Want to feature WeListen in your publication? Contact welistenusa@gmail.com.; (C) 2019 WeListen

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: This organization appears to be a student-led initiative at the University of Michigan that promotes respectful and constructive dialogue across political and ideological divides. It aims to bridge the gap between different perspectives and foster a sense of understanding and empathy. The organization provides a platform for civil discussions, workshops, and events that bring together individuals from diverse backgrounds to engage in meaningful conversations about important issues. Its focus on respectful communication and the cultivation of a welcoming environment suggests that it values open-mindedness, inclusivity, and the ability to listen and learn from others. The organization's collaboration with various student groups, faculty members, and community partners highlights its commitment to creating a positive and impactful change on campus and beyond."""