

Twitter handle (and profile name): OCCJ (OCCJ)

Twitter description: OCCJ is dedicated to achieving respect and understanding for all people through education, advocacy and dialogue.

Follow us on Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn!

Description of the organization from a third party source: "We are the Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice, better known to our friends and donors as OCCJ. We are a human relations organization dedicated to achieving respect and understanding for all people through education, advocacy and dialogue. Stated another way, we fight bias, bigotry and racism in all its forms. OCCJ targets individuals at all stages of life, beginning with Different and the Same, a program for second graders in Tulsa and surrounding elementary schools. Other programs include anti-bullying at middle school levels and a summer camp called Camp Anytown, focusing on diversity issues for high school students. We offer interfaith programs for teens and adults, and diversity and inclusion training for corporate settings. We partner with numerous others in the community on programs such as the Say No to Hate Coalition, and Tulsa Unites. Because our efforts are gaining traction statewide, we are actively establishing a presence in Oklahoma City and elsewhere. In short, we simply work to make our state a better place to live and to do business."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: Home : The Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice

Headings: Privacy Policy; Terms & Conditions; Donation Refund Policy; Automated Recurring Donation Cancellation

Paragraphs: powered by the Lobeck Taylor Family Foundation; Applications are now open!; Commit to diversity, equity, and inclusion today!; OCCJ inspires and equips Oklahomans to overcome bias, bigotry, and oppression.; We envision a state that is inclusive, just, and hospitable for all.; Our programs are designed to increase respect and understanding and reach a broad range of ages - from middle school students through adults. Take a look.; Our network is an integral part of our larger community. Team up with us and see what a huge difference a little bit of your time can make. Take action.; Our programs are a strong thread in the fabric of Oklahoma, weaving through the decades, changing thousands of lives, making our city and our state a better place to live.; Join us in welcoming Heidi and hear her perspective on why representation matters!;

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: History & Mission : About Us : The Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice

Headings: Privacy Policy; Terms & Conditions; Donation Refund Policy; Automated Recurring Donation Cancellation

Paragraphs: Founded as a volunteer movement in Tulsa in 1934 as a chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice (OCCJ) has a proud legacy deeply rooted in the community. The Tulsa NCCJ chapter was formally established as a staffed office in 1958, and through our history in Oklahoma, has been an innovative leader in promoting understanding and mutual respect through advocacy, conflict resolution and education.; With the support of key business, community, education and religious leaders, OCCJ became an organization independent of the national organization in 2005. Becoming an independent organization allowed OCCJ to address issues impacting Oklahomans.; Today, OCCJ inspires and equips Oklahomans to overcome bias, bigotry, and oppression. Our vision is that in our generation, Oklahoma is a more inclusive, just, and hospitable state, for all.; Our programs and initiatives reach a broad range of ages and are focused on recognizing and celebrating both our differences and our shared humanity. These programs are a strong thread in the fabric of Oklahoma, weaving through the decades, touching and changing thousands of lives each year, making our communities and our state a better place to live.; OCCJ's work contributes greatly to healthy, educated and empowered communities. Underlying all the economic and social challenges that communities face are the very basic, and often difficult, human relations issues that OCCJ is uniquely positioned to help resolve.; We are headquartered in Downtown Tulsa with a satellite office in Oklahoma City.; OCCJ is a member of the National Federation for Just Communities (NFJC), a coalition of like-minded organizations working across the United States to bring the values of diversity, inclusion, and social justice to our schools, workplaces, and communities.. Learn more about NFJC HERE.; OCCJ is recognized as having completed the Standards of Excellence course by the Oklahoma Center for Nonprofits. Our certification is valid from 2022-2027, and we can be found on the Oklahoma Center for Nonprofits graduate page.;

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: This organization is called the Oklahoma Center for Community and Justice (OCCJ). It is based in Oklahoma, with offices in Tulsa and Oklahoma City. The OCCJ focuses on promoting justice, understanding, and respect among people of all backgrounds. They offer various programs and initiatives to achieve their mission, including the Anytown Leadership Institute, Youth Leadership Forum for Community Transformation, and DEI

(Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion) Workshops. They also have interfaith programs like TeenTriologue and the Jewish-Christian Dialogue Group. The organization relies on volunteers and accepts donations to support its programs. They have a presence on social media platforms like Facebook, Instagram, and LinkedIn, and they also have a blog where they share news and updates. Overall, the OCCJ appears to be a non-profit organization dedicated to fostering inclusivity and understanding within the community."""