Twitter description: PROOF: Media for Social Justice uses visual storytelling to promote human rights and peacebuilding through educational programs and large-scale photo exhibits.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "PROOF: Media for Social Justice is a non-profit organization based in New York City that uses visual storytelling and education to inspire global attitude and policy changes. It was founded in 2006 under the vision of Leora Kahn, a longtime photo editor, documentary producer, and human rights advocate, who sought to unite the skills and experiences of internationally renowned photojournalists for social good. PROOF brings together photographers, documentarians, journalists, academics, students, and activists to create photo exhibitions, publications, and educational workshops that document social injustices and empower people to act. Our exhibits and workshops aim to engage the broader public in conversations about human rights, peace, and justice through moving first hand testimonies and powerful photo narratives. Partners have included: AEGIS, Amnesty International, Beacon Group, Craigslist Charitable Fund, Karuna Center for Peacebuilding, Holocaust Museum Houston, UNIS, D.O.S, UNPF, NYFE."
