

""Twitter handle (and profile name): onetableshabbat (OneTable)

Twitter description: ðŸ•~Welcome to Better Fridays.ðŸ•~Slow down, unplug, and connect â€” however you Shabbat!

Description of the organization from a third party source: "OneTable empowers people who donâ€™t yet have a consistent Shabbat dinner practice to build one that feels authentic, sustainable, and valuable. OneTable is a national nonprofit funded to support people (21-39ish) looking to find and share this powerful experience. Our approach to Shabbat dinner is non-prescriptive. We encourage our participants to envision what their gathering might be, and we work alongside them to provide the support they need to create that result. OneTableâ€™s primary goal is for emerging adults to become the producers of their own experiences, and for Shabbat dinner to become a platform for community building. We envision a whole generation of millennials slowing down, joining together, unplugging from the week, creating intention in their lives, and building meaningful communities."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: OneTable.org - OneTable

Headings:

Paragraphs:

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About OneTable | Shabbat - A Way to Better Fridays

Headings: Welcome to OneTable. Welcome to Better Fridays.; Eradicating Loneliness One Shabbat at a Time; Shabbat: The Most Ancient ~Wellness~ Ritual; Setting the Table: The OneTable Story; Beyond Scale; Safety & Shabbat Community Standards; Financial Statements; Trying to Get That Challah; Table talk.; Press Love; New York Times; Food52; BuzzFeed; Who We Are; Links; Become A Partner

Paragraphs: Inspired by ancient Jewish wisdom, OneTable is a national non-profit that empowers folks (21-39ish) to find, share, and enjoy Shabbat dinners, making the most of their Friday nights.; Our social dining platform makes it easy for you to become the producer of your own experiences, and for Shabbat dinner to become a platform for community building.; We provide simple DIY tools so hosts can get right to welcoming people to a Shabbat dinner in their home, so guests can savor a Friday meal, and for all to experience unique events for Shabbat dinners right in their neighborhood. We do this because we believe good food and good conversation with great people is simply good for you.; Led by our core values of joy, welcoming, and elevation, we envision a whole generation of young people slowing down, getting together, unplugging from the week, creating intention in their lives, and building meaningful communities.; ; Ready to learn more? Check out OneTable FAQs.; Connect with a member of our team or stay up-to-date with OneTable offerings with our weekly SideDish email.; Share the gift of Shabbat with a donation to OneTable.; We know young adults are facing an epidemic of loneliness, isolation, and addiction to technology. So what's the solution? OneTable, led by Founder and CEO Aliza Kline, dove into extensive research looking for answers.; People in their 20s and 30s needed tools to break down the barriers to hosting - access to education, financial resources, and to each other. We learned that Shabbat has the power to become an antidote to loneliness, empowering people to find and build offline communities of their own. With what we learned, we created the OneTable digital platform and peer-to-peer engagement strategy.; Shabbat, much like yoga or meditation for some, is an act of rebellion against a constantly moving world. We bring ritual to the table not because we have to, but because disconnecting in order to intentionally connect, separate from the work week, and build community is holy - and really good for you.; Our work creates an opportunity for everyone to better engage in their own work. Taking intentional time each week to recharge means everyone can return to their work (whether corporate, justice-oriented, creative, or otherwise) with fresh energy and focus.; OneTable was created to help young adults connect - to find and host Shabbat dinners that are accessible and habitual. In just eight years, OneTable has grown from a small startup into one of the largest, most successful interventions for young Jewish adults in America. So far, we've been able to support the Shabbat practice for almost 240,000 unique participants in 600 cities.; We've invested seriously in research, personnel, and technology to ensure that everyone can experience the full beauty of Shabbat. Here's what's on the OneTable menu.; At OneTable, we are proud of how well we know our participants. Most of our staff, including senior leadership, are part of the demographic we serve and are OneTable hosts and guests as well. OneTable's Jewish Learning team is supported by the OneTable Educational Advisory Board, a dream team of experts from a variety of areas in the field who strategize with us so that we can create, curate, and deliver diverse educational content that will resonate with the OneTable community.; Meet Our;; OneTable has become a thought leader for 20s and 30s community experiences - organizations like REALITY and Birthright Israel hire OneTable to design their custom Shabbat experiences.; The OneTable formula is simple, cost-effective, and impactful (so much so that we're now working to get our technology and tools into the hands of businesses working with different demographics and event types - see below!); The OneTable formula is simple, cost effective, and is having an impact. Survey respondents* say that because of OneTable.; *See "Beyond Scale," a report analyzing survey and focus group data collected by Rosov Consulting in spring 2017, and our Logic Model for more.; We work to ensure that all OneTable staff, users of the OneTable platform, and participants of OneTable events feel welcome and safe. Our platform is dedicated to facilitating a positive, welcoming Shabbat dinner experience.; Community building is made possible in safe environments. We take safety very seriously. We do not tolerate harassment or disrespect of OneTable participants or staff in any form.; The OneTable workplace follows the strictest legal guidelines and ethical standards to offer an office culture that is equitable, safe, and nurturing to each individual. We adhere to the highest standards for prevention, education, and training. OneTable strives to be a leader in offering resources and knowledge to our team to assure these measures are consistently implemented and effective.; Our Code of Conduct is based on our core values, and we ask our participants to follow both the word and spirit of it, keeping in mind that each of us is an important part of community-building and Shabbat-celebrating. It is crucial to our mission that each person feels respected and that everyone comes to each OneTable associated space with their best intentions.; Read through the Code of Conduct for our full safety statement. Please also read through our full Terms and Conditions, which you must agree to in order to use the OneTable platform.; EIN 46-4715368; 2022 Audit Report; 2021 Audit Report; 2020 Audit Report; 2019 Audit Report; 2018 Audit Report; 2017 Audit Report; 2016 Audit Report; ; Over the last eight years, our annual budget has grown from $870,000 to over $8,500,000, while our cost per participant has steadily declined. We are now at a turning point. With a strong presence in 20 hub cities and participants in more than 600 cities, we are well-positioned to address the most pressing challenges facing this generation of young adults.; Currently, we are seeking new philanthropic and corporate partners to help us meet our ever-growing demand and to help us expand in mutually beneficial ways.; Hearing about OneTable changed everything for me. Jessie D, 11 dinners hosted; Hosting Shabbat taught me hospitality on a deeper level than culinary school or any restaurant I'd ever worked in. Jake Cohen, 12 dinners hosted; OneTable has really helped me reframe emotionally, mentally, and physically around Shabbat. Jason Klinman, 13 dinners hosted; "This made me remember why civilizations form bonds beyond their families and enjoy others' company. It's the feeling that you could sit at the table for hours and not want to check your iPhone. It sounds simple, but it felt like nothing short of a miracle."; "That's when I stumbled upon OneTable. It was everything we were searching for, plus the added benefit that I would get to cook. It was truly beshert."; "Most Jewish millennials don't observe the laws of Shabbat, but the respite Heschel described retains its pull. A break. It's not just that religious rituals promote togetherness in a moment of historic loneliness."; OneTable's mission is to make Shabbat dinner accessible to tens of thousands of people who otherwise would be absent from Jewish community. OneTable provides hosts and guests with easily accessible tools and resources, making these rituals not only attainable, but sustainable.; Are you a producer, chef, author, venue, Jewish organization, or any other business interested in engaging with our community? We'd love to hear from you.

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: Based on the information provided, it can be inferred that the organization is focused on hosting Shabbat dinners in various cities and locations. The organization has a website with landing pages for different cities where individuals can sign up to host or attend Shabbat dinners. There are also links to resources, guides, rituals, and mindfulness practices related to Shabbat. The organization also has a team, board, and careers page, indicating that it is a well-established and organized entity. Additionally, there are links for donations and partnerships, suggesting that the organization relies on support from the community and other organizations. Overall, the organization appears to be dedicated to promoting and facilitating Shabbat dinners and related activities in various communities."""