Paragraphs: FREE SHIPPING OVER $40 WITH CODE FREESHIP40; Welcome. We are so glad you're here. Founded by sisters Eunice Moyle and Sabrina Moyle in 2003 in the San Francisco Bay Area, Hello!Lucky's mission is to support our customers' highest good, as well as the highest good of our communities and planet, through delivering products that support joy, creativity, and connection. And we love to have pun while doing it!; We serve our mission in the following ways;; Hello!Lucky was inspired by Eunice and Sabrina's childhood, which was spent living abroad in Asia and Africa, where we were exposed to crafts, entrepreneurship, and pop cultures from around the world. Through our travels and the positive influence of our parents, we adopted a positive, open-minded perspective that embraces diversity, celebrates humor as the ultimate way to connect and get through hard times, recognizes our interdependence, and values creativity, connection and community.; Our business got started when Eunice, an artist, learned how to use a letterpress and got hooked on the beautiful quality of letterpress printing. She bought her first press on eBay and started printing cards in her somewhat leaky Oakland, California garage.; Sabrina, a non-profit arts and education advocate with a business background, soon joined in to support her sister's budding business. Hello!Lucky introduced its first letterpress card collection in 2003 at the National Stationery Show in New York City.; From 2005 - 2013, Hello!Lucky served as a pioneer in the wedding industry, offering creatively designed letterpress wedding invitations and helping hundreds of brides design their dream weddings. Hello!Lucky's designs were featured in Martha Stewart Weddings, with Eunice's wedding serving as the cover story of the Fall 2009 edition. In 2010, Eunice and Sabrina collaborated with Martha Stewart Weddings senior stylist Shana Faust to create Handmade Weddings, a book about using DIY techniques to craft and style your wedding.; In 2013, Hello!lucky left the wedding industry to become a design studio, partnering with fellow woman-owned and -run business, Egg Press. This allowed Eunice and Sabrina to balance their business with their growing families. With the help of Moxie & Company, they began partnering with like-minded businesses to extend beyond greeting cards into home accessories, bedding, and more.; Hello!Lucky also began focusing on giving back to the community, initially through partnering with Egg Press on the Write On Campaign, and later through creating products and books that give back. Sabrina served as a small business advocate during the Obama administration, leading to an invitation to join President Obama and First Lady Michelle Obama at a State Dinner honoring Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe.; In 2018, Hello!Lucky published its first children's books, My Mom is Magical! and My Dad is Amazing! with Abrams Appleseed. Instant successes with over 400,000 copies in print, these books have led to over 15 children's book titles and over 1 million books sold to date. With children's books, Eunice and Sabrina have realized a childhood dream and found their ideal medium, whey they delight in supporting, inspiring, entertaining, educating, and empowering children and families.; We appreciate you taking the time to learn about us and we look forward to supporting you on your own creative journey!; Please reach out anytime and connect with us on Instagram, Twitter, and Facebook.; Egg Press MFG is Hello!Lucky's production and distribution partner for our American-made, hand-crafted letterpress greeting card collection. A phenomenal woman-owned business in Portland, OR, that employs over 20 people, Egg Press Manufacturing beautifully crafts our greeting cards, their own collection, and Ashkahn and is responsible for sales and distribution. In addition, the Egg Press Manufacturing team are our dear friends, supporters, and collaborators, sharing Hello!Lucky's commitment to creating high quality, creative, and meaningful products that make the world a better place.; QUICK LINKS; STAY CONNECTED!
