

""Twitter handle (and profile name): CtnDiscourse (Citizen Discourse)

Twitter description: Practicing civil discourse one conversation at a time.
<https://t.co/bYRy9UMEnn>

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Citizen Discourse's purpose is to support the development of an engaged, informed and caring global society. We use restorative and reflective discourse experiences that lead to self-awareness and authentic connections. Employing a highly curated and research-backed workshop methodology, Citizen Discourse promotes the practice of healthy discourse skills."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: Citizen Discourse - Fostering Trust, Belonging, and Civil Conversations

Headings: Building Trust; One Conversation at a Time; of Americans distrust government; of Americans believe there's a decline in interpersonal trust.; ; Design for Belonging; Culture Consulting; We can help you build trusting and inclusive teams. Reach out and request a free 30 minute consultation; Compassion Contract; Citizen Discourse featured on the Holloran Center Professional Identity Implementation Blog; An Introduction to Citizen Discourse; Free PDF Download; The Constitution of the United States of America; A gender inclusive edition; Sample pages; Receive Our Newsletter and Stay Connected; Invite; Wonder; Stay Informed Paragraphs: Pew Research Center; of Americans believe there's a decline in interpersonal trust.; Pew Research Center; of corporate executives, educators, and employees cite ineffective communication & poor collaboration as reasons for failures in the workplace & classroom.; The Impact of Digital Tools on Student Writing and How Writing is Taught in Schools, Pew Research Center; "Based on your personal experience with the justice system, what advice do you have for law students hoping to contribute to a more just legal system?"; In his slow and deliberate cadence, Calvin responded, "Every person has a story. Take the time to listen."; Copyright Citizen Discourse. All Rights Reserved.

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: An Introduction to Citizen Discourse - Citizen Discourse

Headings: An Introduction to Citizen Discourse; Recently Added.; A Case for Getting Proximate; How A Worldwide Pandemic Has Affected My College Experience By Claudia Giunta; Subscribe to our Blog; Receive Our Newsletter and Stay Connected; Invite; Wonder

Paragraphs: ; The group of 2L and 3L students huddled around a long conference table, leaning in so as not to miss a word. These students are enrolled in the Access to Justice Project Management class I co-instruct with Victor Quintanilla at Indiana University Maurer

School of Law. The person they are eager to hear from is Calvin, who is a clemency client of mine. He's been incarcerated at the Greensville Correctional Facility in Jarratt, Virginia since he was 18 years old. Calvin is 38. Right now, Calvin is looking at another forty years of his life locked away.; "Based on your personal experience with the justice system, what advice do you have for law students hoping to contribute to a more just legal system?"; In his slow and deliberate cadence, Calvin responded, "Every person has a story. Take the time to listen."; ; Unlike breathing, which we do unconsciously, to really listen with the objective to understand the other person requires intention. Otherwise, it's just hearing. In class, we center the practice of active listening: from mirroring and reflective listening to empathic listening and humble inquiry. We think about scenarios where, as lawyers, these different listening approaches are effective tactics.; Let me back up and introduce myself since I'm new to this space. My name is Karen Gross. I am a practicing attorney, a consultant, a facilitator and instructor, and a social justice advocate. Out of a concern for the state of our democracy and a growing interest in restorative practices, I started an organization whose mission is its name: Citizen Discourse. Citizen Discourse gatherings make space for participants to develop more effective communication, self-awareness, and other valuable human skills. The crux of the Citizen Discourse approach involves a human-centered scaffolding for conversations, coupled with a social contract that defines relationships, sets norms, and builds buy-in. Together, these elements help foster psychological safety which lay the foundation for authentic interactions seeded in trust.; I work with law schools supporting and encouraging law students to think about their professional identities, their values, and the emotional intelligence skills it takes to align actions with values. With the newly revised ABA Standard 303, I hope to share this approach and resources with schools looking for a more holistic strategy for embedding professional identity formation.; ; Last week I reached out to the student who asked Calvin for his advice to see what she thought of his answer. She responded with; "I came to law school with aspirations of 'changing the world,' and expected law school to teach me how to do that - and I know many colleagues who share that sentiment. Calvin's advice reminded me that some of the most valuable elements of my practice will be traits that I do not learn in the traditional doctrinal law classrooms. Even if I have all the doctrinal knowledge and ability to 'think like a lawyer,' my clients will be looking to talk to a human - not a robot - who can see, appreciate, and value their humanity."; I believe this sentiment captures the essence of what the work of professional identity formation and Citizen Discourse are all about: helping our students both think like a lawyer and act like a human.; Over the next few posts, I will share the theories and thought leaders that inform the Citizen Discourse approach to culture change. I hope this invites an exchange of ideas and a conversation. To that end, Citizen Discourse offers monthly restorative conversations on the first Tuesday of every month for higher education professionals working in this space. Over the course of a one-hour session, we get mindful, discuss trends and challenges, and build rapport. Come join us if you are curious to experience a Citizen Discourse style conversation.; Citizen Discourse featured on the Holloran Center Professional Identity Implementation BlogBy: Karen Gross, Founder & CEO of Citizen Discourse; "We cannot create justice without getting close to places where injustices prevail....We have to get proximate." - Bryan Stevenson Esteemed innocence attorney and justice warrior;; Claudia Giunta St. Edward's University Junior & Citizen Discourse Intern When I left for spring break this past March I was not aware it would; Receive notifications of new posts by email.; Copyright Citizen Discourse. All Rights Reserved.

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: Our Mission - Exercise Your Civic Expression | Citizen Discourse

Headings: What is; Citizen Discourse?; Citizen; a member of society, global and local; Discourse; the exchange of ideas; Citizen Discourse; Thoughtful engagement in society. A person's civic expression.; Our Mission; Compassion; Contract; The Tenets; Sign your Compassion Contract; Our Vision; Our Values; Receive Our Newsletter and Stay Connected; Invite; Wonder Paragraphs: citizen - noun; discourse - noun; citizen - discourse - verb; Our mission is to support the development of self-aware and empathetic global citizens prepared to contribute to the advancement of a more just and compassionate society. Through workshops, trainings and consulting, we help you build trust, and create space for productive conversations.; Imagine living in a community where everyone you interact with has endorsed a shared set of agreements that guide how to treat one another.; We view our Compassion Contract as a social contract that creates collective agreements for how we engage with others and with our self. By signing your own Compassion Contract, you may find yourself bringing a little more compassion to your interactions in the world.; ; Are you a member of a company, school, city council, house of worship, or any organization that benefits when people treat one another with dignity and respect? Add your organization to our Compassion Endorsement List.; Add your organization to our Compassion Endorsement List by uploading your logo.; Citizen Discourse is a movement devoted to reimagining a world where interactions and cultures are grounded in dignity and compassion.; Citizen Discourse's conversation scaffolding and curriculum will be widely adopted in professional, educational, and public engagement settings, resulting in the advancement of human rights and democratic values.; Copyright Citizen Discourse. All Rights Reserved.

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the provided information, it can be inferred that this organization is called Citizen Discourse. Their mission is to create a more compassionate and constructive public discourse. They offer workshops, salons, and other events to help people learn how to communicate more effectively and respectfully. They also work with schools, businesses, and other organizations to help them create more inclusive and productive environments. The organization has a strong focus on promoting empathy and understanding, and they believe that everyone has the potential to make a positive contribution to society. They also offer a "Compassion Contract" which outlines the principles of respectful and productive communication. Additionally, the organization has a presence on social media platforms such as Twitter and Instagram, and they have a blog where they share articles and resources related to their mission."""