

""Twitter handle (and profile name): nkranich (Nancy Kranich)

Twitter description: Nancy teaches at @RutgersU and works in the library. She is a past president of the @ALALibrary and is passionate about civic engagement.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Nancy Kranich, a past president of the American Library Association (ALA), founded and convenes ALA's Center for Civic Life and the Libraries Foster Community Engagement Membership Initiative Group, trained and practices as a public innovator with the Harwood Institute for Public Innovation, serves on the board of the National Issues Forums Institute, works with the Kettering Foundation to promote democratic practices through libraries and other organizations, and co-leads the US-Russia Dialogue on the Civic Role of Libraries in the 21st Century. She teaches community engagement, information policy and intellectual freedom at the Rutgers University School of Communication and Information and works on special projects with the Rutgers University Libraries."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: Homepage | School of Communication and Information | Rutgers University

Headings: Tools Nav; Nav pre header base; Search; Main navigation; Tools Nav; Tools Nav pre header base; Main navigation; Need Registration Assistance?; Programs, Degrees, & Certificates; Undergraduate Programs; Graduate Programs; Continuing and Professional Studies; Departments; Get to Know SC&I; Student Resources; Faculty/Staff Resources; Stay Connected

Paragraphs: The award-winning, NSF-funded paper focused on the creation of a privacy-preserving dashboard to track COVID cases across the U.S.; ; New Brunswick | NewarkCamden | Rutgers Health

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About SC&I | School of Communication and Information | Rutgers University

Headings: Tools Nav; Nav pre header base; Search; Main navigation; Tools Nav; Tools Nav pre header base; Main navigation; Breadcrumb; About SC&I; Main navigation; The School of Communication and Information; Academic Programs at SC&I; Undergraduate Majors; Undergraduate Minors; Masters; Doctoral; Continuing and Professional Studies; Rutgers University; Student Resources; Faculty/Staff Resources; Stay Connected

Paragraphs: Communication and information are at the forefront of every industry and interaction today. The School of Communication and Information (SC&I) is committed to equipping students with the tools required to succeed in today's global communication, information and media environments. SC&I's programs will prepare students interested in organizational and health communication, social and new media, library and information science, and information technology for a top career in today's digital workplace.; SC&I seeks to understand communication, information, media processes, and technologies as they affect individuals, societies, organizations, and the relationships among them.; The solutions to many of society's critical problems are rooted in interaction, participation in information networks, and processes of civic engagement. Societal challenges include the achievement of healthy people and communities; maintaining a thriving democracy and useful public policy; preparing new generations of leaders; creating humane, productive, and empowering organizations; and development of individual skills, self-understanding, and personal fulfillment.; SC&I has several centers, labs, working groups, and clusters focusing on areas such as school libraries, organizational development and leadership, and communication-related to health issues.; SC&I, located on the Rutgers flagship New Brunswick campus, was created in 1982 with the merger of the Graduate School of Library and Information Studies, the School of Communication Studies, and the Department of Urban Journalism. The journalism and library science programs each had roots in programs established in the 1920s at Rutgers, and the communication program was established during the 1970s.; Distinguished faculty of the school have been elected to the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication (vice president), to the Association for Library and Information Science Education Board of Directors, and to the Society of American Historians; named International Communication Association fellows, Knight News Innovation Fellows at Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism, a Whiting Foundation Public Engagement fellow, a British Psychological Society fellow, and a resident fellow at the Leon Levy Center for Biography; appointed a Martin Luther King, Jr. Visiting Professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; included in the 100 Brilliant Women in AI Ethics trademarked list; winners of a Peabody Award, numerous National Communication Association awards, the American Association of School Librarians Distinguished Service Award, the ALA Isadore Gilbert Mudge Award, the APHA Betty J. Cleckley Minority Issues Research Award (honorable mention), Baldrige Foundation Award for Leadership Excellence (inaugural winner), Association of Internet Researchers book award, Marilyn Sternberg Award; appointed to the American Library Association Council and the Botswana-Rutgers Mahube Partnership for Transformation; invited to participate in the Geneva Dialogue; and are recipients of various Rutgers University awards for teaching, research, and service, among other honors, including the Jeff Tellis Outstanding Advisor Award and a Loyal Son of Rutgers Award, among other honors.; Our outstanding students have received numerous awards, including the Emerging Researcher Award by the Social Informatics Special Interest Group at ASIS&T (SIG SI), several International Communication Association awards, the 2020 Paul Robeson Renaissance Award, the 2021 iSchools Doctoral Dissertation Award (runner up), the National Communication Association Donald P. Cushman Memorial Award, an American Association of University Women American Dissertation Fellowship, and Johnson & Johnson fellowships. Many are honors society inductees, and one was named an Association of Research Libraries Diversity Scholar.; Students in the SC&I's Ph.D. program can choose from the following areas;; Certificate programs are offered with numerous elective options;; Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, is a leading national research university and the state of New Jersey's preeminent, comprehensive public institution of higher education. Established in 1766, the university is the eighth oldest higher education institution in the United States. Nearly 69,000 students and 22,000 full- and part-time faculty and staff learn, work, and serve the public at Rutgers locations across New Jersey and around the world. The Middle States Commission on Higher Education voted on June 21, 2018 to reaffirm the accreditation of all Rutgers University locations for the period July 1, 2018 - June 30, 2027.; ; New Brunswick | NewarkCamden | Rutgers Health

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: Based on the provided information, this organization appears to be an academic institution offering undergraduate, graduate, and continuing education programs in communication, journalism, and information technology. It has various departments, including communication, journalism and media studies, and library and information science. The organization conducts research, hosts events, and provides student services such as career assistance and financial information. It also has a strong online presence with social media accounts and a website. While the specific name of the organization is not mentioned, it is likely a university or college with a focus on communication and information studies."""