

""Twitter handle (and profile name): PeaceMuseumOhio (International Peace Museum @i,)

Twitter description: America's Peace Museum. Follow us on Facebook, Instagram & our website. Likes, follows, & retweets are not endorsements or official positions.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Founded in 2004, the Dayton International Peace Museum raises awareness of nonviolent strategies for achieving peace now and in the future. It was named in honour of the 1995 Dayton Peace Accords that ended the war in Bosnia. Its mission is to inspire a local, national, and international culture of peace."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: Home International Peace Museum

Headings: International Peace Museum; Home; Join us for the In Their Footsteps Reception.; LEARN THE PAST. CHANGE THE FUTURE.; Celebrate the actions of the past and recent peace activists at The International Peace Museum. View one-of-a-kind exhibits, attend events, and join our community.; Welcome to The International Peace Museum; Lessons of the Dayton Accords; Up Next; Testimonials; ; Save our Spotify playlist to your library!; Join our newsletter.; VISIT; MUSEUM HOURS; GET IN TOUCH; Cart

Paragraphs: ; ; ; Founded in 2004, The International Peace Museum raises awareness of nonviolent strategies for achieving peace now and in the future. It honors the 1995 Dayton Peace Accords that ended the war in Bosnia. The Dayton International Peace Museum was founded by J. Frederick Arment, Ralph and Christine Dull, Steve Fryburg and Lisa Wolters.; ; The International Peace Museum is organizing a special program for January 2024- April 2024. Stay up to date with the most recent news!; ; Gandhi Photo Collection & Lifestory Exhibit; J. Kadir Cannon Collection - Ongoing; ; Nationalism and xenophobia were at the root of the brutal war in Bosnia-Herzegovina. Unfortunately, these tactics are not new, and they are becoming common again as new political leaders around the world use nationalism to rise to power. It is up to peace-loving people to be just as passionate about a world that celebrates diversity and difference. Visit our full digital exhibit on the Dayton Peace Accords, and the aftermath of the war in the former Yugoslavia.; ; The museum serves as a gathering place for everyone and offers programs that celebrate music, art, books, film, new ideas, and fresh, often under-represented voices to the conversation. The museum's success depends on supporters and volunteers like you. The more support we have from the community, the more we can offer in the future.; ; ; ; ; The Peace Museum's mission; To inspire people to work for greater peace and compassion through education and collaboration is evident the minute you walk through the doors. We are so blessed to have the International Peace Museum in Dayton where we can build community with outstanding programming and exhibits. The museum is a place for people to come together, learn and grow.; Open in Spotify

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About the Museum - International Peace Museum

Headings: ; ; ; Our Mission; To inspire people to work for greater peace and compassion through education and collaboration.; Our Vision; To promote a world that seeks alternatives to war and violence and encourages compassion.; Our History; How to build a Peace Museum; ; Join our newsletter.; VISIT; MUSEUM HOURS; GET IN TOUCH; Cart

Paragraphs: ; ; ; A museum by definition is an institution devoted to the procurement and exhibition of objects that have artistic, cultural, religious, historical, or scientific value for people's enjoyment and education. Aspell (2016), in her book Introducing Peace Museums, stresses the one challenge of creating spaces that display the material culture of peace, bring to light peace histories, show expression to peace cultures, and share peace narratives. First, peace as outcome, gets tucked under the glory and complex strategies of war - war as absolute, peace as ongoing- situating the ego of 'power over' as perhaps more spectacular than the humility of 'power with.' Around the world, many war museums capture the breadth of human history in our attempts to create peace from war.; The Gernika Peace Museum in Spain and the Kyoto Museum for World Peace in Japan gained support and provide consolation to the horrors of war, but they also project a future along a very different path. The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization's Preamble to the Constitution states "[t]hat since wars began in the minds of man, it is in the minds of men that the defenses of peace must be constructed." (2); Second, peace as process, is more easily captured by focusing on issues- human rights, civil rights, structural violence-looking for peace in the exploits of social justice. Peace is the absence of war, but true peace or "positive peace" depends on the existence of political, social, economic, and environmental justice, a respect for all human rights and respectful communication, the maintenance of nonviolence, and on the just resolution of international tensions.; ; Museum founders, Chris and Ralph Dull with Paul K. Chappell, founder of The Peace Literacy Institute.; A peace museum needs to promote an understanding of peace as a process that promotes positive relations among people- a dynamic human condition in which neither the overt violence of war/armed conflict nor the covert violence of unjust systems is used against people and places.; The International Peace Museum was first suggested as an idea and then built in form by a small group of people near Dayton, Ohio. In 2003, Christine and Ralph Dull were on a road trip back from the United Nations, reflecting on their conviction to peace/nonviolence and to the Miami Valley, their home community. The nation recognizes Dayton for its crucial role in aviation and military air strategy, from the testing of the first plane at Huffman Prairie to the formal establishment of the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and the concurrent growth of the National Museum of the US Air Force after WWII. Global inspiration certainly came from the historic 1995 General Framework Agreement for Peace in Bosnia and Herzegovina (Dayton Peace Accords) negotiated by Richard Holbrook at Hope Hotel on the Wright-Patterson AFB. "Dayton should have a museum dedicated to transforming our culture of violence into a culture of peace."(4); ; Completed in 1850, Dayton's Old Court House is considered one of the finest examples of Greek-Revival architecture in the nation. U.S. Presidents Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Johnson, James Garfield, John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, Richard M. Nixon, Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan, and William J. Clinton have all campaigned on the building's storied limestone steps.; During the Civil War, the Dayton community gathered at the Old CourtHouse for telegraph updates. Following the Great 1913 Flood, giantbanners were strung from its historic eaves, encouraging area citizens todonate to flood relief programs (thereby creating the Miami Conservancy District). And during World War II, the building became a backdrop for bond drives.; From daytonhistory.org; Page Sources:1. Apsel, Joyce. 2016. Introducing Peace Museums. Routledge Research in Museum Studies. Abington, UK. See especially Chapter 1- Introducing Peace Museums and Chapter 5- Dayton International Peace Museum. A Community Model. Both chapters support the content of this essay.; 2. https://en.unesco.org/70years/building_peace; 3. See especially published books and essays by David Cortright, Director of Policy Studies and the Peace Accords Matrix at the Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies, University of Notre Dame.; 4. Christine Dull in Apsel 2016, Chapter 5, p. 147.; ; ;

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the provided information, it can be inferred that this organization is likely a museum or cultural institution dedicated to promoting peace and understanding. The presence of social media links, a website with various sections such as "exhibits," "events," "programs," and "education," suggests that the organization is actively engaged in public outreach and education. The inclusion of links for facility rental, annual membership, and donation options indicates that the organization may rely on community support and partnerships for its operations. The mention of specific exhibits, such as the "Dayton Peace Accords Exhibit" and the "Gandhi Photo Collection," suggests a focus on historical and cultural aspects of peacemaking. The organization's website also includes sections on its people, partners, and media, indicating a commitment to transparency and collaboration. Overall, the information provided suggests that this organization is dedicated to fostering peace and understanding through educational programs, exhibits, and community engagement."""