

""Twitter handle (and profile name): usafmc (Former Members of Congress)

Twitter description: The official Twitter account for the U.S. Association of Former Members of Congress (FMC) and The Congressional Study Groups

Description of the organization from a third party source: "The USAFMC utilizes the skill sets of its 600 members to provide pro bono programs and initiatives both at home and abroad. Using the expertise of its membership, FMC has created programs to educate, assist, and support Congress domestically and internationally."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: FMC - the association of former Members of Congress

Headings: Former Members of Congress; FMC, UMass Amherst Release New Poll of Nearly 300 Former Members of Congress on Current State of Congress; STAY CONNECTED; Sign up to receive "InBrief," the newsletter that keeps you updated on all things FMC; Subscribe; FEATURED EVENTS

Paragraphs: Former Members of Congress; Earlier this year, FMC partnered with the University of Massachusetts Amherst Poll to conduct a survey on our Membership about the state of our current political environment and Congress. Questions covered everything from views on the 2020 election, to experiences with violent threats, to whether or not they'd run for Congress again. Click the button below to view the results of this one-of-a-kind survey and learn more about what our Former Members think of today's political climate.; Click Above To Read Our 2023 Year In Review; Click Above To Read Our Press Release On Our Election Symposium With The Kettering Foundation; Click Above To Read The Full Congress At A Crossroads Report; Sign up with to receive news and updates.; ; Congress To CampusFor more than four decades, FMC's hallmark civic education program, Congress to Campus, has sent bipartisan pairs of Former Members of Congress to colleges around the country to speak to students about serving in Congress and to demonstrate that policy differences can be discussed in a civil manner. Click above to learn more.; Congressional Study GroupsIn addition to our work with Former Members of Congress, FMC houses four Congressional Study Groups (Europe, Germany, Japan, and Korea), which connects current Members of Congress and high-level Congressional staff with their counterparts in each country. These bilateral exchanges strengthen U.S. relationships with allied democracies around the world and provides participants with our allies' perspectives on an array of pressing global issues. Click above to learn more.; Former Member ActivitiesWhat started as an alumni organization more than 50 years ago has grown into a unique and impactful nonprofit delivering daily on its mission to strengthen Congress and safeguard democracy, promote public service and civil debate, build relationships with leaders around the globe, and provide opportunities for Former Members to stay connected and involved. Click above to learn more.; Powered by Squarespace.

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: ABOUT FMC - FMC

Headings: ABOUT FMC; Our Mission Statement

Paragraphs: Former Members of Congress; FMC is the premier non-profit focused on Congress, involving both Former and Current Members of Congress in our work - all on a bipartisan basis. We utilize the unique skill sets of our over 800 members to provide pro bono public service programs and initiatives both at home and abroad. We also engage over 200 Current Members of Congress and senior Congressional staff annually in international legislative exchanges through our Congressional Study Groups. Our work strengthens the Congress by creating across-the-aisle opportunities for Current Members to work together on issues including energy, global trade, international security, and transportation policy. Equally important is our work educating the public about U.S. representative democracy, public service, and Congress as an institution.; While the organization has been chartered by Congress since 1983, it is not funded by Congress. It is a 501(c)(3) tax-exempt non-profit organization. Thanks to its membership dues, annual fundraising dinner, donations from corporations and individuals, and foundation grants, FMC sponsors programs across the nation and in numerous foreign countries at no cost to the taxpayer.; Powered by Squarespace.

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: This organization appears to be the U.S. Association of Former Members of Congress (FMC), based on the presence of "/usafmc" in the URLs and social media links. The FMC seems to be a non-profit organization comprised of former members of the United States Congress. The organization has a website with various sections, including information about its leadership, staff, sustaining members, partners, and advisory board. It also has sections for press releases, FMC in the news, former member books, and events. Additionally, the organization has social media accounts on Twitter, LinkedIn, Facebook, Instagram, and Flickr. The FMC also appears to have a partnership with the Kettering Foundation and has convened symposiums on election integrity. The organization also has a legacy report and an in-brief section on its website. Furthermore, the FMC has a member login section and is involved in the Congress to Campus program."""