

""Twitter handle (and profile name): HdxAcademy (Heterodox Academy)

Twitter description: A non-partisan collaborative of educators who believe open inquiry, diverse viewpoints, & constructive disagreement are critical to research & education.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Heterodox Academy is a non-partisan collaborative of more than 2,500 professors, administrators, and graduate students committed to enhancing the quality and impact of research and improving education by promoting open inquiry, viewpoint diversity, and constructive disagreement in institutions of higher learning."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: Heterodox Academy

Headings:

Paragraphs: Join us on June 6-8 in Chicago, IL to connect with the HxA community, hear from experts and advocates, and plan to put principles in action.; Great Minds Don't Always Think Alike; We advance the principles of open inquiry, viewpoint diversity, and constructive disagreement to improve higher education and academic research.; Actively support our mission through community building, research, events and more!; HxA facilitates various online and in-person communities to connect members and other supporters who advocate for open inquiry, viewpoint diversity, and constructive disagreement. We have dozens of Campus Communities on individual campuses around the globe, as well as HxCommunities which bring together members of specific disciplines, regions, and other academic settings.; With the generous support of Schmidt Futures, Heterodox Academy (HxA) is pleased to solicit grant proposals from its members as part of its Open Inquiry in STEM Disciplines Grant Program.; View the Request for Proposals.; Join hundreds of HxA members and supporters in Chicago June 6 - 8, 2024! Our annual conference promises to be an exceptional intellectual event, filled with networking, research, workshops, and exciting speakers.; Learn more about our conference.; If you're not a member, join today.; Already a member? Refer a friend!; Also consider updating your email signature to include "Member, Heterodox Academy". This is a simple way to raise awareness for HxA and its mission.; If you want to make a bigger statement, check out our merch shop.; Join our community of faculty, staff, and students in our efforts to improve the quality of research and education in universities through viewpoint diversity, open inquiry, and constructive disagreement.; Complimentary membership includes access to the new HxA Portal - a private online forum for HxA members and HxCommunities - invitations to members-only events, funding opportunities, professional development opportunities, members-only discounts to HxA Summits, and more.; To better improve your site experience, we collect some data. To see what types of information we collect, read our Cookie Policy.

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About - Heterodox Academy

Headings:

Paragraphs: Join us on June 6-8 in Chicago, IL to connect with the HxA community, hear from experts and advocates, and plan to put principles in action.; AboutHeterodox Academy; Heterodox Academy (HxA) is a nonpartisan, nonprofit membership organization of thousands of faculty, staff, and students committed to advancing the principles of open inquiry, viewpoint diversity, and constructive disagreement to improve higher education and academic research.; Our commitment to heterodoxy within the academy is a response to the rise of orthodoxy within scholarly culture that leads people to fear shame, ostracism, or any other form of social or professional retaliation for questioning or challenging a commonly held idea.; We aspire to create college classrooms and campuses that welcome diverse people with diverse viewpoints and that equip learners with the habits of heart and mind to engage that diversity in open inquiry and constructive disagreement.; We see an academy eager to welcome professors, students, and speakers who approach problems and questions from different points of view, explicitly valuing the role such diversity plays in advancing the pursuit of knowledge, discovery, growth, innovation, and the exposure of falsehoods.; Heterodox Academy was founded in 2015 by Jonathan Haidt, Chris Martin, and Nicholas Rosenkranz, in reaction to their observations about the negative impact a lack of ideological diversity has had on the quality of research within their disciplines. What began as a conversation among social researchers about the challenges facing their disciplines and institutions, grew into a community of thousands of faculty, staff, and students.; Today, our membership extends from large research universities to community colleges in the US, Canada, and around the world, and represent nearly every academic discipline. HxA members are dedicated to advancing the principles of open inquiry, viewpoint diversity, and constructive disagreement as cornerstones of academic and intellectual life.; We believe that in order to separate good ideas from bad, and to make good ideas better, it is essential for scholars and students to develop the habits of heart and mind necessary to evaluate claims, sources, and evidence; and to reason carefully and compassionately about the world.; We gather and empower diverse academic insiders to advance open inquiry, viewpoint diversity, and constructive disagreement across higher education. We conduct research, develop resources, build communities, engage with leaders, and elevate public conversations, working to re-shape the formal policies and informal norms that determine academic culture and practice.; Open inquiry is the ability to ask questions, share ideas, and challenge existing orthodoxy without risk of censure. In an environment that is sufficiently open, people can explore facts, opinions, and beliefs; discover and create important innovations; solve problems; and flourish intellectually.; Viewpoint diversity is when members of a group or community approach problems or questions from a range of perspectives, backgrounds, and personal experiences. When a community is marked by intellectual humility, empathy, trust, and curiosity, viewpoint diversity gives rise to engaged and respectful debate, constructive disagreement, and shared progress toward truth.; Constructive disagreement occurs when people who have different perspectives on an idea or issue are committed to collaboratively exploring and learning from one another.

Rigorous, open, and responsible engagement across lines of difference is the foundation of healthy academic practice and is essential to make good ideas better.; Explore the impact Heterodox Academy has had on people and campuses at universities across higher education.; We work with mission-aligned institutions and organizations across the academy and the nonprofit sector.; HxA's vision, 'great minds don't always think alike', sets the standard for viewpoint diversity and inclusion, consistent with the contents of our character. We often think of diversity and inclusion in the context of external demographics, it's time we consider diversity and inclusion in the context of internal demographics.; We are not pro-right or pro-left, we're pro-university. And if you're pro-university, then you must have viewpoint diversity and open inquiry; We encourage our members to embody a set of norms and values in all of their professional interactions - and insist on them for anyone publishing on our platforms or participating in our events.; "I support open inquiry, viewpoint diversity, and constructive disagreement in research and education."; To better improve your site experience, we collect some data. To see what types of information we collect, read our Cookie Policy.

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the information provided, the Heterodox Academy appears to be an organization dedicated to promoting open inquiry, viewpoint diversity, and constructive disagreement in academia. They offer resources, events, and opportunities for members to engage in discussions and debates on various issues, with a focus on campus expression and academic freedom. The organization also advocates for institutional neutrality and intellectual pluralism in higher education. Additionally, they conduct research and publish reports on topics related to campus climate, free speech, and viewpoint diversity. The Heterodox Academy has a strong online presence, with social media accounts, a blog, and podcasts, and it encourages members to become involved through membership, donations, and volunteering. While the provided information does not explicitly state the organization's political stance, it suggests a commitment to fostering open dialogue and intellectual diversity across different viewpoints."""