Twitter description: We the People seeks to be the single source of truth for what the People think about important topics facing the United States.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "We seek to empower millions of highly engaged voters from the left, middle, and right of the political spectrum. From every state and all walks of life. With the combined resources to shift the balance of power away from large corporations and their Washington lobbyists. We are developing a software platform (and membership-submitted propositions) to ascertain the areas of agreement among our diverse Members and will use their monthly dues to advocate for their collective interest. We are the country's first and only common interest group."
