Description of the organization from a third party source: "Young people aged 18-29 are one of the most underrepresented voter groups in the US â€” yet their values have the power to transform our nation. The Andrew Goodman Foundation works to make young voices and votes a powerful force in democracy. We support youth leadership development, voting accessibility, and social justice initiatives on campuses across the country with mini-grants to select institutions of higher learning and other financial assistance to student leaders. Join us as we inspire more young people to pursue social change work, activate important lessons of the past, and sustain todayâ€™s effective social action."
