

""Twitter handle (and profile name): kitchentable_d (KT_Democracy)

Twitter description: A national non-profit and R&D center helping states and leaders use collaborative governance

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Kitchen Table Democracy creates and fosters collaborative governance capacities, structures, and networks in states. We support leaders, offer a nationally recognized source of information and demonstrate the effectiveness of collaborative, democratic based processes."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: Kitchen Table Democracy |

Headings: Main menu; Collaborative Governance & Democratic Practice; A Practical Guide to Collaborative Governance; The Kitchen Table Model; UNCG Guide to Collaborative Competencies; About Kitchen Table Democracy; Collaborative Governance Lessons from Estuary Programs; UNCG Webinar: Foundations Speak on Collaborative Governance; University Network for Collaborative Governance; Tennessee Speaker of the House Beth Harwell; 99 Chambers - Tennessee Speaker of the House Beth Harwell

Paragraphs: Featured Content; This handbook walks readers through the stages of sponsoring, convening, organizing, and participating in a collaborative process.; Read more; Featured Content; The Kitchen Table helps connect elected officials and the public in joint projects at nearly any scale (state, regional, local and even individual).; Read more; Featured Content; The 28 page UNCG Guide to Collaborative Competencies is intended primarily for use by public officials and managers.; Read more; We work with state leaders throughout the country to initiate and strengthen programs for collaborative governance and democratic practice. This assistance takes many forms, including supporting leaders in convening collaborative processes, experimenting with new forms of collaboration and democratic practice, and supporting networks of collaborative leaders and universities.; Field Notes; The University Network for Collaborative Governance hosts a series of quarterly webinars to engage members on topics related to collaborative governance. The webinar hosted in the second quarter of 2021 explored Collaborative Governance Lessons from Estuary Programs. The panel of guest presenters represented a variety of programs and regions across the US. The presenters spoke on how diverse estuary programs around the United States have established and implemented collaborative governance models through exploring what works, what lessons have been learned, and what the future holds.; Read More; Field Notes; On April 22, 2021, the University Network for Collaborative Governance hosted its first quarterly webinar of the year. The webinar was titled "Foundations Speak on Collaborative Governance." The online event began with introductions from the guest presenters representing foundations from the states of Oregon, North Carolina, and New Jersey. The speakers each provided a brief summary of their individual organizations, and then participated in a collective question and answer session.; Read More; The University Network for Collaborative Governance (UNCG) consists of centers and programs in colleges and universities that engage in service and scholarship in order to enable citizens and their leaders to engage in dialogue, discussion, problem solving, and conflict resolution around public issues.; Join UNCG Sign Up for UNCG Emails; Regis University: Main Hall against a mountain backdrop; 99 Chambers; The Tennessee House of Representatives is the lower house of the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee and meets in the state capitol of Nashville.; Read More; (C) 2015 Kitchen Table Democracy

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About Us | Kitchen Table Democracy

Headings: Main menu; About; About Us; Mission; Services / Projects; Kitchen Table Model; Consultation / Technical Service; Joint Projects; Networks; Information Resources

Paragraphs: To play a catalytic role in helping state leaders develop a collaborative system of governance, Kitchen Table Democracy (formerly the Policy Consensus Initiative), alongside its affiliated university program, the National Policy Consensus Center at Portland State University,;; Kitchen Table Democracy supports the work of the National Policy Consensus Center, particularly through the development and replication of its Oregon's Kitchen Table program. Oregon's Kitchen Table is an online tool that allows community members to give input to elected officials, participate in civic crowdfunding, and get involved in building prosperity through Oregonian to Oregonian micro-lending. The online activities can be combined with old-fashioned face-to-face conversation and community organizing of all kinds. The Kitchen Table model has had such a great response in Oregon, we're ready to start rolling it out in other jurisdictions.; We work with state leaders throughout the country to initiate and strengthen programs for collaborative governance and democratic practice. This assistance takes many forms, including strategizing with state officials on ways to apply collaborative governance; co-sponsoring conferences and workshops; providing information, resources, and training; and assisting with policy and program development.; We partner with other organizations to explore and demonstrate how states can work on public problems collaboratively with federal, regional, and local agencies and civic and private sector organizations.; We develop and maintain communication networks to help leaders and programs exchange ideas and information. We host the University Network for Collaborative Governance, an organization for college and university centers and programs that engage in service and scholarship in order to enable citizens and their leaders to use collaborative practices to engage in dialogue, deliberation, and negotiation around public issues. We also host 99 Chambers, a joint project with the Kettering Foundation that connects people around the country to their state legislative chambers.; We produce and distribute a range of tools and resources, including publications and videos, that promote best practices and provide guidance on the use of collaborative governance.; ; *Kitchen Table Democracy (formerly the Policy Consensus Initiative) does not pay facilities and administration or indirect costs to any organization.; (C) 2015 Kitchen Table Democracy

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the provided information, it can be inferred that this organization is called Kitchen Table Democracy. It appears to be focused on collaborative governance and has a particular interest in the University of North Carolina at Greensboro (UNCG). The organization has a website with various pages dedicated to its mission, board, staff, field notes, contact information, research and development, a "kitchen table" section, highlights, and UNCG-related information. Additionally, there are sections for tools, readings, a directory, membership offerings, events, joining the organization, and a "99 chambers" section. The organization also has a presence on social media platforms such as Facebook, Twitter, and Vimeo. Furthermore, it has a partnership with EveryAction, a digital organizing platform. Overall, the organization seems to be dedicated to promoting collaborative governance and fostering connections between UNCG and other entities."""