Twitter description: The Albuquerque Center for Peace and Justice strives to create a world where our collective needs are met sustainably and nonviolently.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "The initial focus of the Center was disarmament and peaceful economic conversion â€” work that reflects our location in a state that has been controlled economically by the war industry since the 1940s. Our work broadened in the mid-80s to include Central America solidarity movements, including the Sanctuary Movement, and the Peace Education Project, which provided local educators with resources, curricula, and training on issues such as multiculturalism, Rethinking Columbus, and Nonviolence."
