

""Twitter handle (and profile name): TheCivicCircle (The Civic Circle)

Twitter description: The Civic Circle is a nonprofit that uses music and drama to introduce elementary school students to democracy. Please visit <https://t.co/JvnkZtNIII>.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "The Civic Circle is a nonprofit based in Silver Spring, Maryland, that sets out to bring civics alive for very young children with music and drama shared in assembly and after-school programs. The Civic Circle's seven "steps to democracy" are based on core values that are widely shared by Americans from all walks of life, and that are relevant to adults as well as kids."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: A nonprofit that empowers young students to understand and participate in democracy through music and the arts.

Headings: WHAT is the Civic Circle?; WHY the Civic Circle?; WHAT do students learn?; The Civic Circle in Action; Thank you to our Supporters and Collaborators:

Paragraphs: The Civic Circle is a Silver Spring, Maryland nonprofit that brings democracy and civic learning alive for young children with music and drama shared in performances and after-school programs.; Our program meets young kids at their level, and links the arts with learning by inviting students into a creative process. Through song and story, kids learn about seven "steps to democracy," each captured with a single word that grabs the attention of young children: Listen (civil discourse), Learn (media literacy), Choose (voting), etc.; Teachers are invited to enrich the program with such activities as a parliamentary-style debate, a mock election, or a public service project. By getting elementary school-age children excited about democracy, we are cultivating the next generation of active citizens.; At a time when many young people lack basic knowledge about government and public life, the need for civic education has never been greater.; The Civic Circle breaks new ground by getting kids excited about democracy as early as elementary school. Many existing civic education programs focus largely on high school students. Yet very young children readily understand such concepts as fairness, respect, truthfulness, equality, having a voice and helping others.; The Civic Circle also sets itself apart by using the performing arts to bring democracy alive for kids. In our after-school programs, students write their own democracy songs and hear from their civically active older peers. Our educational videos and performances showcase original songs about the Constitution, voting and public service, and lift up youth voices.; The Civic Circle teaches students seven civic skills, or "steps to democracy," that are at the heart of our program.; Civic Skill: Civil Discourse.; Civic Skill: News Literacy.; Civic Skill: Voting.; Civic Skill: Community Service.; Civic Skill: Advocacy; Civic Skill: Community Organizing; Civic Skill: Public Leadership, Running for Office.; First Name; Last Name; Email address;; ;

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About Us

Headings: About Us; About The Civic Circle; Board Members & Advisors; Team Members & Artists; Vision and Mission; Equity, Diversity & Inclusion

Paragraphs: The Civic Circle is a Silver Spring, Maryland-based nonprofit that empowers young students to understand and participate in democracy through music and the arts, inspiring compassionate, informed, engaged citizens. For more information, please contact info@theciviccircle.org; First Name; Last Name; Email address;; ;

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the provided information, it can be inferred that The Civic Circle is an organization dedicated to promoting civic engagement and fostering a sense of community. The organization's website highlights its commitment to equity, diversity, and inclusion, and its mission to "inspire and empower people to participate in and strengthen their democracy." The website also includes information about the organization's programs, such as workshops, assemblies, and lesson plans, which aim to educate and engage individuals in civic activities. Additionally, the organization provides resources for educators, including lesson plans and multimedia materials, to support their efforts in teaching about civic engagement. The website also includes information about the organization's team members, board members, and advisors, as well as opportunities for volunteering and donating. Overall, the information provided suggests that The Civic Circle is an organization actively working to promote civic engagement and empower individuals to participate in their communities."""