

""Twitter handle (and profile name): ResetGreat (Community Roundtables - The Great Reset)

Twitter description: Discovering community through conversation._x000D_

All conversations currently hosted on Zoom._x000D_

https://t.co/G8Gb0VTtb8

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Borne out of the Community Roundtable philosophy of sitting down, across the table, from people to have open, respectful discourse, came The Great Reset. These monthly roundtables are facilitated by Kalinda Fisher in Tennessee."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: The Great Reset

Headings: DISCOVERING COMMUNITY THROUGH CONVERSATION; Join the conversation; Become a Partner; Support Us; What are The Great Reset Community Roundtables?; Upcoming Conversations; What People Are Sayingâ€‹; Quick Links; Join Our Community

Paragraphs: View our upcoming conversation topics and sign-up to be notified when registration opens.; The Great Reset brings tools to organizations looking to help their members discuss difficult subjects with respect and humility. Click here to learn how you can join other community-based organizations and use this tool.; Help us keep the conversations going by contributing to our 501(c)(3) through donations, volunteering, and more.; The Great Reset Community Roundtables are an initiative to bring conversations to your community. They are a gathering of people who want to have open, respectful discussions. Once a month, participants meet (in-person or virtually) to discuss a topic or idea and hear a variety of perspectives from other participants. These conversations provide a space to listen and to share. Even when we disagree, we walk away enriched and anticipating the next conversation.; No Events; Explore thoughts and reactions of our leaders and participants in the video playlist below!; Get all latest content delivered to your email a few times a month.; (function() {_x000D_

window.mc4wp = window.mc4wp || {_x000D_

listeners: [],_x000D_

forms: {_x000D_

on: function(evt, cb) {_x000D_ window.mc4wp.listeners.push(_x000D_

{_x000D_

event : evt,_x000D_

callback: cb,_x000D_

}_x000D_

);_x000D_

}_x000D_

}_x000D_

}_x000D_

})(); ; By continuing to use this website, you consent to the use of cookies in accordance with our Cookie Policy.

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About Us - The Great Reset

Headings: ABOUT US; Our Mission; Join the conversation; Become a Partner; Support us; Our Story; Our Values; Openness; Humility; Mutual Respect; Grace; Courtesy; Nuance; Community; Our Communities; Meet The Team; Alison Williams; Angela Curtis; Jones; Cris Ann Bain-Borrego; Delaney Fisher-Cassiol; Andy Bryan; Carol Fisher; Jeff Gartner; Teresa Faust; Stuart Tutler; Michele Aymold; Kalinda Fisher; FAQ's; Who participates in a conversation?; How long is a conversation?; How many people participate?; What is a typical conversation like?; Do I need special technology to participate in a conversation?; Do you record the conversations?; What can I expect when I register for a conversation?; Do I have to prepare for a conversation?; Is The Great Reset a for profit organization?; How did The Great Reset begin?; How do you select which topics you will discuss?; Who are the conversation moderators?; Can I request a speaker from The Great Reset?; How can I get involved?; Can I submit a topic for discussion?; How often do you have a conversation?; Can I bring The Great Reset to my organization?; Where is The Great Reset?; How does The Great Reset afford to offer these tools and resources?; Can I support The Great Reset?; What if I can't afford to donate to The Great Reset?; Is The Great Reset global?; Are you related to The World Economic Forum?; Quick Links; Join Our Community

Paragraphs: The Great Reset is a series of open and respectful conversations about important current topics of interest that bring people together around an exchange of thoughts, ideas, and experiences.; Each month we offer at least one conversation. Learn more about upcoming and past topics and sign-up to be notified.; The Great Reset brings tools to organizations looking to help their members discuss difficult subjects with respect and humility. Click here to learn how you can join other community-based organizations and use this tool.; Help us keep the conversations going by contributing to our 501(c)(3) through donations, volunteering, and more.; It's been said, "strangers are only friends we have yet to meet." We'd love to meet you so permit us to tell you a little bit about ourselves.;

Two years ago, The Great Reset began as a wish of our founder, Kalinda Fisher, to have civil conversations with people at a time when only surface speak was conducted in what was becoming a volatile, politically charged period in our history. She noticed people could not converse for any length of time without a change in tone, as people felt challenged or threatened if they spoke their views. A Social Media invitation to join in conversation at her dining room table resulted in an outpouring of people interested in "talking." After the one time they gathered, it turned out they wanted more conversations about heretofore tough conversations (opioids, suicide, health care, racial inequality, etc.), hence The Great Reset was born.; Within a year, while meeting monthly, conversation tables sprung up in states around the US. Nashville's Channel 5 came on-site into Kalinda's dining room, filmed, and aired what they saw, leaving the often-asked question, what next? Realizing the people all over want to be heard, want to be respected, and want to have their say about what they believe in a safe, humble environment, TGR has now become a not-for-profit making conversations to anyone wanting to become involved, either as hosts or participants.; TGR offers a candid, relaxed, unintimidating setting for individuals to share beliefs from all sides of the table.; TGR is based upon the premise that conversations can be civil and informative when all parties agree to give each other dignity.; TGR requires that participants treat one another with deference and decency borne out of a mutual desire for civil conversation.; TGR, through kindness and grace offered to one another, creates a family who, as all families, may not totally agree, but give each other a platform to speak and to be heard.; TGR believes that its participants will be free to converse with consideration for others feelings, concern for their emotional well-being and charitable thoughtfulness.; TGR participants learn to listen and look for the nuances in others' conversations, reading body language and facial expressions, which written words alone cannot express. This opens the door for them to be empathetic to the other person's point of view, whether they agree or not.; TGR becomes a united community of people who are willing to learn and grow and discover community through conversation.; Participants in our community roundtables come from across the U.S. and the World, with representation from Colombia, France, Italy, Kenya, Rwanda, Spain, and the United Kingdom.; We welcome participants of all ages, ethnicities, political persuasions, sexual orientations, religious views, etc. Our participants share a desire to have open, respectful discussions and hear a variety of perspectives on a topic.; The average conversation is about 90 minutes.; We try to keep the group to not more than 6, for optimal listening and exchange of perspectives.; Conversations occur on a virtual platform once a month. Each conversation has a moderator who facilitates the conversation with a discussion guide developed for the specific topic. The moderator welcomes participants and outlines conversation guidelines to set expectations for the group. The moderator will ask open-ended questions and encourage discussion. At the conclusion of the conversation, participants will receive a thank you email and a request to share a brief testimonial (optional) about their experience.; Our conversations take place on our partner's platform, called Kazm. Kazm is similar to Zoom but has been created purposefully for face to face conversations. You will have the ability to turn off your camera when you participate, if you choose, but we hope you will not.; We do record the conversations for the purposes of internal learnings. Further, on occasion something is said that encapsulates a topic, or the mission of The Great Reset perfectly and we will, at those times, ask the participant directly if we can share. If you choose not to have your comments shared, we will not.; Upon registration, you will receive an email asking you to RSVP to the conversation. Subsequently you will receive an email with the meeting link. You will also complete a brief pre-conversation questionnaire. The information from this questionnaire is used to create diverse groups of people as well as to better understand participants. This questionnaire is also an opportunity for you to get a better sense of the trajectory of the conversation so you feel better prepared to participate, fully.; No formal preparation is necessary, although some conversations include optional reading materials. We simply ask that you bring a positive attitude and listen with respect and speak with humility, two foundational pillars of The Great Reset.; No. The Great Reset is a charitable organization, a 501(c)(3). Please feel free click on 'Donate' if you are interested in supporting our effort to keep the conversation going.; The Great Reset started with a simple discussion around a dining room table. Our founder, Kalinda Fisher, was concerned by the increasing volatility and anger in our civil discourse. So, she sent an invitation via social media, inviting folks in her town to gather around her dining room table for a conversation. After the one time they gathered, it turned out they wanted more conversations about heretofore tough topics (opioids, suicide, health care, racial inequality, etc.), hence The Great Reset was born. For more information, see "Our Story" on the About page.; Our programming/curriculum team gathers regularly to identify key issues, cultural trends, news stories, and concepts that are relevant to our participants. We also review topic suggestions submitted by our participants. If people are talking about it and it's important, you can find it at The Great Reset.; Our conversation moderators come from a variety of backgrounds. Some are professional group facilitators. Some are conversation participants who decided to become more involved and become trained as a moderator.; Yes. Please make a request on our Contact page.; Getting involved is as easy as clicking a button. You can register for an upcoming conversation on our Events page.; Yes. You can submit a topic for discussion on our Contact page.; At minimum, we have one conversation per month. Periodically, we have two conversations per month.; Yes. We have a Partner Portal for subscribers. Please reach out on our Contact page.; The Great Reset is an online resource, so we're basically everywhere! It is free to participate in our discussions. Anyone with an open mind and online or telephone access can participate. The Great Reset headquarters are located in Franklin, TN.; As a 501(c)(3), tax-deductible charitable organization, we rely on donations.; You can support us by spreading the word, participating in a conversation, sharing our content, and donating. Your tax-deductible donation allows us to further these important conversations with people all over the world. Please see our Donate page.; You can still make a difference by participating regularly in our conversations and spreading the word. Follow us on Facebook, YouTube, Instagram, Twitter, and LinkedIn. The most important thing you can do is share our content and spread the word about us.; Yes, we have conversations with people all over the world. In fact, we dedicate four conversations a year to our global participants.; No, we are not related to The World Economic Forum. In June 2020 The World Economic Forum named their 50th annual meeting "The Great Reset", bringing together high-profile business and political leaders with the theme of rebuilding society and the economy following the COVID-19 pandemic. We launched in 2018. Our goal is to cultivate community through conversations.; Get all latest content delivered to your email a few times a month.;

window.mc4wp = window.mc4wp ||

listeners: [],

forms: {}

on: function(evt, cb)

window.mc4wp.listeners.push

{

event : evt,

callback: cb

}

);

}

}

}

})(); ; By continuing to use this website, you consent to the use of cookies in accordance with our Cookie Policy.

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the information provided, it can be inferred that this organization is called "The Great Reset." It has a presence on various social media platforms such as Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, and LinkedIn. The organization also has a website with sections for news, upcoming events, a blog, and contact information. Additionally, there is a donation page and a section for becoming a partner. The organization seems to have connections with other organizations such as Alight Ashram, Citizen Connect, Reunited States TV, America Talks, One Will Co, Mediators Foundation, JL Nashville, Listen First Project, Franklin Tomorrow, Arcade UCC, Leadership Buffalo, Cobalt House Creative, Nashville Ballet, Centre College, and others. However, the exact nature of the organization's activities, goals, and mission cannot be determined from the provided information. ""