Twitter description:

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Ashley Trim is the Executive Director of the Davenport Institute for Public Engagement and Civic Leadership at the Pepperdine University School of Public Policy. She has worked in public policy at the local, state and national level, for both governments and non-profit organizations. Trim has a BA in Government from Patrick Henry College and an MPP from the Pepperdine School of Public Policy. She currently writes and speaks about transparency, civility, and public engagement for local and online publications, Davenport Institute trainings, and national conferences. Ashley co-designed and serves as an instructor for the Professional Certificate in Advanced Public Engagement for Local Government, and coordinates trainings, conferences, and partnership projects for the Institute. Trim also serves as editor of the Davenport Institute's public engagement blogs; coordinates Davenport's grant programs, training seminars and events; and oversees the Institute's research and engagement projects. She spearheads Davenport Institute collaborative partnerships with various organizations committed to improving engagement between citizens and government. In this capacity she is currently serving as co-chair of the University Network for Collaborative government for the 2016-2017 term."
