

""Twitter handle (and profile name): afsc_org (AFSC)

Twitter description: #Quaker org that includes ppl of various faiths committed to social justice #BlackLivesMatter #DefundHate #SanctuaryEverywhere #NoBanNoWall #GazaUnlocked

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Founded in 1917, the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC) is a Quaker organization that promotes lasting peace with justice, as a practical expression of faith in action. Drawing on continuing spiritual insights and working with people of many backgrounds, we nurture the seeds of change and respect for hu AFSC envisions a world in which lasting peace with justice is achieved through active nonviolence and the transforming power of love."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: Home | American Friends Service Committee

Headings: We bring together people of all faiths and backgrounds to challenge injustice and build peace around the globe.; Crisis in Gaza; Jan. 15-21; Stop Cop City Corporate Week of Action; Take action; Expand the child tax credit; Tell Congress; Call for a cease-fire and humanitarian access to Gaza!; DONATE; Emergency response in Gaza; Register for our Jan. 23 webinar; Protecting Migrant Rights in an Election Year; Providing life-saving aid to Gaza; Protecting the rights of women in prison; Fatima's story, an update from Gaza; Protecting Palestinian children's lives and rights; OurWork; Over a century of action; Donate today

Paragraphs: We need you by our side! Join our community of donors and help fund urgent work for peace, justice, and human dignity. We need to hear from 500 caring people by February 15 to continue our important work. Please join us!; Quaker action for a just world; Mohammed Zaanoun/Activestills; Mounting violence has created a humanitarian crisis. Join AFSC to provide relief to people in Gaza and call for peace.; AFSC was founded in 1917 to create alternatives to military service during World War I. Since then, we have stood with communities taking bold action to overcome violence, inequality, and oppression.; Ralph Azar/AFSC; American Friends Service Committee_x000D_x000D_

1501 Cherry Street, Philadelphia, PA 19102_x000D_x000D_

215-241-7000; (C)AFSC 2024

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About | American Friends Service Committee

Headings: About; Our Mission; 18; 37K; 237K; We respect the equality, worth, and dignity of all people and regard no one as our enemy.; We seek right relationship with all life on a sustainable Earth.; We accept that our understanding of truth is incomplete and seek ever deeper insights from lived experience.; We trust the Spirit to guide discernment of our collective actions.; We assert the transforming power of love and active nonviolence as a force for justice and reconciliation.; History of Our Work; Equity, Inclusion & Culture; More About AFSC; Strategic Goals; The People of AFSC; Careers; Reports & Financials

Paragraphs: We need you by our side! Join our community of donors and help fund urgent work for peace, justice, and human dignity. We need to hear from 500 caring people by February 15 to continue our important work. Please join us!; Quaker action for a just world; AFSC works for a just, peaceful, and sustainable world free of violence, inequality, and oppression. We join with people and partners worldwide to meet urgent community needs, challenge injustice, and build peace.; Often found on the forefront of social change movements, AFSC pursues systemic change. In our work for a better future, we focus on three strategic goals - just and sustainable peace, just economies, and just responses to migration.; Often found on the forefront of social change movements, AFSC pursues systemic change. In our work for a better future, we focus on three strategic goals - just and sustainable peace, just economies, and just responses to migration.; Guided by the Quaker belief in the divine light of each person, AFSC works with people of all faiths and backgrounds to challenge unjust systems and promote lasting peace.; Countries where AFSC works with communities to build peace and justice for all; Young people involved with AFSC around the world to create change; Advocacy letters sent by AFSC supporters to public officials in 2021; Left: AFSC Archives. Right: Sarah Jane Rhee; Since 1917, AFSC has been on the forefront of some of the most important social movements in working for a more just, peaceful world. See highlights from our history.; The Office of Organizational Equity, Inclusion and Culture works to support AFSC's internal culture and external practices in becoming more equitable, inclusive, and in alignment with AFSC's commitment to anti-oppression principles.; American Friends Service Committee_x000D_x000D_

1501 Cherry Street, Philadelphia, PA 19102_x000D_x000D_

215-241-7000; (C)AFSC 2024

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: History | American Friends Service Committee

Headings: History; 1917-1939; 1940-1959; 1960-1979; 1980-Today; Explore the Archive

Paragraphs: We need you by our side! Join our community of donors and help fund urgent work for peace, justice, and human dignity. We need to hear from 500 caring people by February 15 to continue our important work. Please join us!; Quaker action for a just world; Since 1917, AFSC has been on the forefront of some the most important social movements in working for a more just, peaceful world. Explore some of the major events in our history over the past century.; When the U.S. entered World War I, young pacifists needed ways to serve their country nonviolently. That led to the creation of AFSC.; In 1917, AFSC was founded in Philadelphia in response to an urgent need for conscientious objectors to find alternatives to military service during World War I.; AFSC created a program to feed thousands of children in Austria, Germany, and Poland. In the postwar era, AFSC was willing to do what others would not-to house, feed, and train people scorned as "enemies."; AFSC established a feeding program that would help thousands of Appalachian coal miners and their families as the need grew in the years ahead. This work moved AFSC to focus more on domestic issues and economic justice.; AFSC spoke out against the racist U.S. Immigration Act of 1924, which barred immigration from Japan. Our publication "Exclusion: Its Cause and Cure" outlined the roots of racism and noted the contributions that Japanese Americans had made to the U.S. economy.; AFSC hired Crystal Bird, a young Black woman, to speak around the U.S. on racial equality. This effort to bridge the racial divide preceded decades of work to stop lynching, integrate public schools, and foster equity in jobs and housing; In the years prior to and during World War II, AFSC secured the release of persecuted Jews throughout Europe. Our efforts helped more than 20,000 individuals and families-including thousands of children-make their way to safety.; After World War I, AFSC engaged young people in voluntary service projects to rebuild what war destroyed. In the following decades, we coordinated volunteer work camps to support communities worldwide through work camps and international service programs.; Beginning with the Spanish Civil War and continuing throughout World War II, AFSC set up milk stations and fed tens of thousands of people at orphanages, prisons, refugee camps, and homes for the elderly.; During World War II, AFSC opposed Japanese internment, brought food and medical care to people in Europe and China, and helped thousands of children escape the Nazis.; AFSC was one of the few U.S. organizations to oppose the internment of Japanese Americans-while visiting and providing aid to people interned. We established two programs to get people out of camps, eventually securing the release of more than 4,000 individuals.; AFSC operated halfway houses and pre-trial programs for incarcerated people who couldn't afford bail, seeing firsthand how the criminal justice system inflicted disproportionate harm on the poor and people of color.; The Nobel Peace Prize was jointly awarded to AFSC and the British Friends Service Council, in recognition of the work of all Friends worldwide to heal rifts, tend to the wounded, and oppose war.; In response to a United Nations request, AFSC led relief for refugees in Gaza. We set up clinics in refugee camps, supported local hospitals, and started a midwifery program to train dozens of women.; AFSC's partnership with migrant farmworkers began with the demand to eliminate tin-shack housing and improve basic services. Later, AFSC helped create the United Farm Workers, providing meeting places, collecting funds for strikers, and paying the chief union negotiator's salary.; Following the Brown decision, AFSC helped Black families enroll their children in formerly white-only schools. In Prince Edward County, Virginia, where the school board closed their schools rather than integrate, we placed dozens of Black students in Northern schools.; AFSC published "Speak Truth to Power: A Quaker Search for an Alternative to Violence," which called for peaceful solutions to end the Cold War.; AFSC sponsored Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and Coretta Scott King's visit to India. That connected them with Gandhi's legacy, strengthening their commitment to nonviolent action. In 1963, AFSC would publish Dr. King's "Letter from Birmingham City Jail."; AFSC has long stood with communities working for racial and economic equality-from the Civil Rights Era to farmworker rights to Native struggles for self-determination.; AFSC was a vital part of the Vietnam-era peace movement. AFSC shared first-hand information from Vietnam to build support to end the war. AFSC provided medical aid to civilians in Vietnam and offered draft counseling to thousands in the U.S.; AFSC played a prominent role in the Poor People's Campaign, raising issues of economic and racial equality.; AFSC researchers formed NARMIC (National Action/Research on the Military Industrial Complex). They researched military industries and civilian companies complicit in the Vietnam War and in South African apartheid-and created books, fliers, and presentations for activist campaigns nationwide.; As Indigenous people organized for self-determination, AFSC has stood with them. From the Pacific Northwest to the Plains to Maine, we partnered with tribes and nations in advocating for recognition of fishing rights, land claims, and several other issues.; In 1975, AFSC established a Lesbian/Gay/Bisexual Rights Task Force. In 1986, AFSC created our first LGBTQ program in Seattle. In 1992 the office created the Bridges Project, an informational clearinghouse for LGBTQ youth and the organizations that served them.; AFSC launched a successful nationwide boycott of Coca-Cola. We brought organizing expertise to the cause, connecting D.C. policy groups, students, unions, churches, and municipalities. Ultimately, the campaign contributed to the downfall of apartheid in 1994.; When popular movements rose up in Central America in the 1970s and '80s, governments responded with brutality. AFSC's staff on the ground brought the brutality to light, along with U.S. involvement. We coordinated with U.S. faith communities offer refugees sanctuary.; For decades, AFSC called for nonviolent alternatives to end the Cold War. Through the 1980s and '90s, we also helped organize people in the U.S. against apartheid in South Africa.; In 1980, AFSC sent its first delegation to North Korea, and we have continued promoting peace between the U.S. and DPRK since. AFSC has helped Korean farmers increase food production, which has helped in a country facing food shortages.; AFSC played a lead role in the Nuclear Freeze Campaign, a nationwide movement that demanded an end to nuclear weapons. The movement mobilized millions and moved government officials, including President Ronald Reagan, to call for arms control.; Our Dialogue and Exchange Program launched, bringing together Global South leaders-from the grassroots, civil society, and government-to share insights and collectively solve problems. Since then, hundreds have participated to address election violence, climate and conflict, and more.; AFSC launched "Eyes Wide Open," a traveling exhibit that featured one pair of empty boots for every U.S. military member killed in the Iraq and Afghanistan wars. Millions of people across the U.S. came to look, grieve, and think.; For decades, AFSC has called for an end to solitary confinement. When 30,000 prisoners in California went on a hunger strike to protest solitary confinement, AFSC negotiated on their behalf. The strikes led to improvements at state prisons.; AFSC launches the Investigate project, which exposes corporate complicity in state violence and human rights violations to guide investors toward ethical alternatives. Engaging independent research and shareholder activism, the project has seen investments and company policies change.; As caravans of migrants traveled north from Central America, AFSC provided them with humanitarian support and human rights monitoring. We rallied 400 people to the U.S.-Mexico border, an action named "the most valuable protest of the year" by The Nation.; Following years of research and community work on prisons and policing, AFSC published "North Star," which identifies seven guideposts on the path toward the abolition of prisons, jails, detention centers, and all forms of incarceration.; Since its establishment in 1929, the archive collection has been a source for records of the organization's work in some of the most important historical events from around the world.; American Friends Service Committee_x000D__x000D_

1501 Cherry Street, Philadelphia, PA 19102_x000D__x000D_

215-241-7000; (C)AFSC 2024

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the provided information, it can be inferred that this organization is likely a non-profit organization dedicated to promoting peace, justice, and equality. The organization has a presence on various social media platforms, indicating its efforts to engage with the public and raise awareness about its causes. There are sections on the website dedicated to issues such as economic justice, global peace, migration and immigrant rights, and prisons and policing, suggesting that the organization works on a wide range of social justice issues. The website also includes information about the organization's history, team, and financial reports, indicating a commitment to transparency and accountability. The presence of a donation page and calls to action further suggests that the organization relies on public support to fund its activities. Overall, the information provided suggests that this organization is actively involved in addressing social and political issues and relies on public engagement and support to achieve its goals. ""