

""Twitter handle (and profile name): NICDInstitute (Natl Inst Civil Disc)

Twitter description: The National Institute for Civil Discourse (NICD) is a nonpartisan center for advocacy, research, and policy regarding civil discourse.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "NICD supports a congress and executive branch capable of working to solve the big issues facing our country, a media that informs and engages our citizens, and demands civil discourse and a government that works in the best interests of the country as a whole. "

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: National Institute For Civil Discourse - Engaging Differences Constructively

Headings: Because America is at its best; When We're United; join us to engage our differences constructively; Bipartisan Infrastructure Bill is Signed Into Law; CommonSense American HelpsEnd Surprise Medical Billing; National Advisory Board; Board Chairs; View All Board Members; Take Action with Us

Paragraphs: Play Video_x000D_x000D_

_x000D_x000D_

Because America is at its best_x000D_x000D_

When We're United_x000D_x000D_

join us to engage our differences constructively_x000D_x000D_

_x000D_x000D_

Our BoardOur ProgramsDonate; ; President Biden signed the Bipartisan Infrastructure Bill into law as the impressive group of Republican and Democratic Senators and Representatives who crafted and supported it looked on. The more than 36,000 members of CommonSense American are proud to have played an important role at each step in the long process.; Read the Surprise Medical Billing Case Study Join CommonSense American; ; ; Americans from across the country and political spectrum are alarmed by the bitter divisions in our country. Just when we think our politics can't get worse, we find a new bottom.; NICD believes the American people will be our saving grace. We are less divided than we seem and hungry for a constructive approach to politics.; Champion common-sense policy solutions in Congress by taking 4 easy steps. With over 53,000 members and broad political support we have the ability to make real change; Join us on a journey to remind ourselves how to engage our differences more constructively - to see each other as human beings, not as competing political positions; Join faith communities to call for greater dignity and respect in politics; Increase bipartisanship, collaboration, and civility in state government; Learn from scholars about their findings on political and social discourse; Experience other Americans grappling with bridging their divides; CommonSense American members find solutions wise enough to attract broad, grassroots support beyond the base of one party. Our members are realizing the promise of government that is truly by and for the people.; We've attracted more than 53,000 members who reflect the nation both politically and geographically, drawing from all 50 states and DC.; Republicans; Independents; Democrats; Other; A new online video program that reminds Americans that our commitment to engaging our differences constructively is essential to fulfilling the promise of our nation. The segments are brief, interactive, and feature NICD's Board members, including Katie Couric, Tom Daschle and Christine Todd Whitman.; Our program to engage communities of faith reaches thousands of churches across the theological and political spectrum in making the call for greater dignity and respect in our politics. Throughout 2020, a year in which Americans will select our next President, congregations will emphasize how we treat others -even those who disagree with us- as an important moral issue.; Next Generation increases bipartisanship in state government while inspiring future congressional leaders. Through our Building Trust through Civil Discourse workshop created by, led by, and tailored for state legislators - we work with elected officials to promote discourse and collaboration in statehouses across the country.; NICD supports research on civility to create a body of knowledge on the history of political and social discourse in America and ways to improve it. Our staff and community of scholars supports academics throughout the country in their research and teaching.; Divided We Fall is a docu-series that shows ordinary Americans wrestling with what it truly means to be an American, the divides that prevent it, and what we can do to bridge the gaps.; 1301 Pennsylvania Ave NW_x000D_

Suite 500_x000D_

Washington, District of Columbia 20004; 202-975-6146; nicd@arizona.edu; Americans from across the country and political spectrum are alarmed by the bitter divisions in our country. At NICD we believe the American people will be our saving grace. We are less divided than we seem and hungry for a more constructive approach to politics.; (C) 2024 National Institute For Civil Discourse.

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About - National Institute For Civil Discourse

Headings: About NICD; National Institute for Civil Discourse; Building the nation's capacity to engage our differences more constructively; About the Founding Executive Director: Carolyn J. Lukensmeyer; Key Principles and Best Practices for Engaging Differences

Paragraphs: In 2011, the University of Arizona created NICD after the Tucson shooting that killed six people and wounded thirteen others, including former Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords. Although many people know about this incident now, fewer people know that

Congresswoman Giffords was already in discussion with the University of Arizona about creating a center to study how to improve the quality of civil conversation.; The Tucson community came together to create NICD, a non-partisan organization based at the University of Arizona to promote healthy and civil political debate. NICD is devoted to the same principles that motivated Congresswoman Giffords: that people with different values and political preferences can discuss their differences in a civil and productive manner. The galvanizing power of that event brought together an impressive, bipartisan group of leaders to work on these issues.; No one knew in 2011 just how bitter and polarized our politics would become. By seriously engaging the problem early, NICD became the leading national voice for bridging through civil discourse and respect.; At NICD, we believe the American people will be our saving grace. We are less divided than we seem and hungrier for a more constructive approach to politics. NICD has developed a multi-faceted strategy to channel Americans' yearning into a coherent and powerful force. Our bold vision, compelling strategy, and high-profile board members combine to set NICD apart as a leader in this movement. In addition to inspiring and organizing everyday Americans, our strategy is designed to encourage elected leaders to put country ahead of partisanship.; ; Dr. Carolyn J. Lukensmeyer was the first Executive Director of the National Institute for Civil Discourse, an organization that works to build the nation's capacity to engage our differences more constructively. As a leader in the field of deliberative democracy, she works to restore our democracy to reflect the intended vision of our founding fathers. Dr. Lukensmeyer was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences' Commission on the Practice of Democratic Citizenship which produced the landmark 2020 bipartisan report Our Common Purpose: Reinventing American Democracy for the 21st Century. She previously served as Founder and President of AmericaSpeaks, an award-winning nonprofit organization that promoted nonpartisan initiatives to engage citizens and leaders through the development of innovative public policy tools and strategies. During her tenure, AmericaSpeaks engaged more than 200,000 people and hosted events across all 50 states and throughout the world. Dr. Lukensmeyer formerly served as Consultant to the White House Chief of Staff from 1993-94 and on the National Performance Review where she steered internal management and oversaw government-wide reforms. She was the Chief of Staff to Ohio Governor Richard F. Celeste from 1986-91, becoming the first woman to serve in this capacity. She earned her PhD in Organizational Behavior from Case Western Reserve University and has completed postgraduate training at the Gestalt Institute of Cleveland.; Engaging in conversations across the divide opens doors to finding common ground and moves our country toward a more perfect union. Our programs convey several key principles and best practices that are critical to connecting across divides, including: Empathy instead of vitriol; Listening for Understanding instead of hearing to overpower; and Humility instead of all-knowing.; 1301 Pennsylvania Ave NW_x000D_

Suite 500_x000D_

Washington, District of Columbia 20004; 202-975-6146; nicd@arizona.edu;
Americans from across the country and political spectrum are alarmed by the bitter divisions in our country. At NICD we believe the American people will be our saving grace. We are less divided than we seem and hungry for a more constructive approach to politics.; (C) 2024 National Institute For Civil Discourse.

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the provided information, it can be inferred that the organization is likely a non-profit, educational, and research institution dedicated to promoting civil discourse and understanding among diverse groups of people. The organization has a presence on various social media platforms, including Twitter, Facebook, and Anchor.fm, and has a website with information about its mission, staff, programs, and research. The organization also has a blog where it publishes articles and news related to civility and civil discourse. Additionally, the organization has a donation page where individuals can contribute to its work. While the provided information does not explicitly state the organization's location, there are references to the University of Arizona, which suggests that the organization may be based in or affiliated with the university."""