Paragraphs: We start with the evidence. The data gathered by the California Dream Index serves as our "North Star," allowing us to track economic mobility and keep ourselves and others accountable for progress.; We center our work in California's diverse regions with the power of the California Stewardship Network, an alliance of regional leaders that are focused on triple-bottom-line solutions that balance equity, environmental sustainability and economic growth.; Through the California Economic Summit and our work groups, we lift up policy agendas and recommendations that will be advanced throughout the year.; When appropriate, we move policy recommendations forward through our sister advocacy organization, the CA FWD Action Fund.; CA FWD is also committed to elevating the next generation of diverse and empowered leaders through our Young Leaders Advisory Council and Becky Morgan Steward Leadership Program.; Since 2019, the organization has partnered with the Newsom Administration on the Regions Rise Together Initiative, organizing convenings with regional leaders to lift up and empower regional approaches to economic development.; We envision a state where Californians of every region, race and creed prosper and where government is effective, transparent and accountable to them.; We believe that the solutions to the state's most pressing challenges must be rooted in a triple-bottom-line approach that balances social equity, environmental sustainability, and economic opportunity.; We empower collective action to create lasting and inclusive change by bringing people together who have different demographic backgrounds, regional communities, lived experiences, and political and sectoral perspectives. As a multi-partisan organization, we work to lift all voices.; We hold ourselves and state leaders accountable for progress, relying on trusted data to inform and move policy forward.; ; We have the courage to speak out against policies that will stand in the way of achieving shared prosperity for all and to provide bold new alternative practices and policies that will help our state and communities thrive.; These values are also represented in reforms CA FWD has been involved with that fortify California's governance. Since its launch in 2008, the organization has had a successful track record of proposing, endorsing and promoting a variety of reforms that have positively impacted the residents of California.; Prop 11 in 2008 took the decennial job of drawing political boundaries away from lawmakers and gave it to citizens to reduce partisan gerrymandering.; Prop 14 in 2010 gave every voter the right to vote for all candidates in primary elections, giving politicians an incentive to appeal to all voters in their districts.; Prop 28 in 2012 allowed state lawmakers to serve up to 12 years in either house of the Legislature, giving them a chance to build expertise and relationships.; Prop 42 in 2014 affirmed in the constitution the public's right to local government records.; SB 1253 in 2014 increased public review of proposed ballot measures, increased transparency about supporters and encouraged legislative solutions.; Prop 25 in 2010 made it harder for partisan stalemates to hold up funding for essential state and community services.; Prop 2 in 2014 provided a mechanism for managing volatile revenue and saving money to provide essential services during economic recessions.; Prop 50 in 2016 gave the California Legislature clear authority to suspend members of the Senate or the Assembly without pay.; Prop 54, approved in 2016, requires the Legislature to distribute and post online legislation in its final form for at least 72 hours before a final floor vote by either house, to post online a video recording of every legislative meeting that is supposed to be open to the public, and to allow all individuals to create and share their own recordings of legislative proceedings.; CA FWD helped school districts use new authority and resources to close the achievement gap.; CA FWD and its Summit network has crafted and advocated for new local authority to finance infrastructure that supports jobs, communities and the environment and continue to work on improvements.; CA FWD and its Summit network has worked to steer state resources toward programs that increase job skills for a new generation of middle-class wage earners. In 2016 the state budget included $200 million for the Strong Workforce program to upgrade career technical programs which will train the state's 21st century workforce at California's Community Colleges.; The California Economic Summit is leading a regions-driven effort to identify solutions that influence state actions to encourage job growth.; Our Leadership_x000D_x000D_
