

""Twitter handle (and profile name): CSPC_DC (CSPC)

Twitter description: The Center for the Study of the Presidency & Congress is a nonpartisan organization that seeks to apply lessons of history to the challenges of today.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "The Center for the Study of the Presidency & Congress's mission is to apply the lessons of history to today's political challenges; develop strategic policy solutions by convening representatives from government, academia, and the private sector; and educate the next generation of leaders."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: Center for the Study of the Presidency and Congress

Headings: Center for the Study of the Presidency And Congress; Applying The Lessons of History to the Challenges of Today.; CSPC Releases the 2022-2023 Presidential Fellows Review; Events; GEOTECHNOLOGY COMPETITION; Preparing OUR nation with the tools needed to best foster American competitiveness, prosperity, and security.; National Security Space Program; Preparing our nation for the challenges presented by the final frontier.; Triumphs and Tragedies; Our Take on Historical Lessons from the Capitol to the White House.; Political Reform Initiative; Incentivizing Civility and COMpromise to Fix a Deadlocked System.; Presidential Studies Quarterly; Presidential Fellows Program; Preparing the Next generation of global leaders for the complex challenges of today.

Paragraphs: CSPC is proud to announce the release of the 2022-2023 Fellows Review, an anthology of research papers produced by the Center's Presidential Fellows. The talented college and university students that make up the annual Fellowship cohort spend 9 months diving into topics related to the presidency and Congress. The best of their research is coalesced into the Review. We encourage you to explore their work on topics ranging from U.S. foreign policy to electoral politics.; Watch Past Events; Register and Join Upcoming Events; Allen joins CSPC on 25 January to discuss her book, "Beijing Rules: How China Weaponized Its Economy to Confront the World", Taiwan's elections, and the future trajectory of strategic competition between the United States and China with Joshua C. Huminski, the Director of the Mike Rogers Center for Intelligence and Global Affairs; ; Presidential Studies Quarterly (PSQ) is the only scholarly journal that focuses entirely on the most powerful political figure in the world-the President of the United States.; An indispensable resource for understanding the U.S. president, Presidential Studies Quarterly (PSQ) offers articles, features, review essays, and book reviews covering all aspects of the Office. Containing award-winning articles, PSQ is published by Wiley-Blackwell and edited by a distinguished Presidential scholar Dr. George C. Edwards III. Wiley-Blackwell Publishing issues the journal four times annually in March, June, September, and December. Please note, the publication is only available online.; Center for the Study of the Presidency and Congress; 601 13th St. NW Suite 1050N; Washington, DC 20005; Contact CSPC; Phone: (202) 872-9800; Fax: (202) 872-9811; Subscribe to our News Roundup; Powered by Squarespace

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: Mission - Center for the Study of the Presidency and Congress

Headings: About Us; Our Mission

Paragraphs: L-R, CSPC Trustee Ambassador Paula Dobriansky, Dr. Heather Wilson, Ms. Gwynne Shotwell, and CSPC President & CEO Glenn Nye; Rep. Mike Rogers, David M. Abshire Chair, receiving Intelligence Under Law award from the NSA.; Promote leadership in the presidency and the Congress to generate innovative solutions to current national challenges; Bring representatives of the Executive and Legislative branches together to address compartmentalization and bridge disconnects. Marshalling the best talent to solve problems, regardless of political affiliation, will strengthen the effectiveness of government with inclusiveness and civility. See Civility and Inclusive Leadership and Declaration on Civility and Inclusive Leadership for more information.; Preserve the historic memory of the Presidency by identifying the lessons from the successes and failures of such leadership; Provide context and perspective of past successes and failures through the award-winning Presidential Studies Quarterly, the premiere journal on the American Presidency. The Center's highly praised book, Triumphs and Tragedies of the Modern Presidency: Seventy-Six Case Studies in Presidential Leadership, also provides important insights to White House and Congressional leaders, other key government officials, and academics.; Draw on a wide range of talent to offer ways to better organize an increasingly compartmentalized Federal Government; Marshal a wide range of voices and talents - new and well-known, from both in and outside of Washington, including think tanks, universities, laboratories and NGOs - by drawing on larger institutions that conduct in-depth research on a wide array of policy programs. CSPC acts as a catalyst by defining issues and mobilizing experts around a strategic focus.; Educate and inspire the next generation of America's leaders to incorporate civility, inclusiveness, and character into their public and private lives and discourse; Identify, inspire, and mentor the next generation of national leaders through the Center's widely recognized Presidential Fellows Program and National Consortium for Character-Based Leadership, as well as the CSPC Internship Program.; Center for the Study of the Presidency and Congress; 601 13th St. NW Suite 1050N; Washington, DC 20005; Contact CSPC; Phone: (202) 872-9800; Fax: (202) 872-9811; Subscribe to our News Roundup; Powered by Squarespace

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: History - Center for the Study of the Presidency and Congress

Headings: Our History

Paragraphs: CSPC was founded in 1965 by Dr. R. Gordon Hoxie at the behest of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Dr. Hoxie, a historian and chancellor of Long Island University, built an organization that would provide historical perspective about our nation's highest offices for citizens and policymakers. Since then, CSPC's journal Presidential Studies Quarterly-first published in 1971-has provided renowned scholarly study of the U.S. presidency, while the CSPC Presidential Fellows Program has educated young leaders about careers in public service since 1972.; In 1999, CSPC was re-headquartered in Washington, D.C., under the leadership of Ambassador David M. Abshire. With CSPC serving as a non-partisan convener of leaders and experts from the government, private sector, and academia, its roundtables and policy programs have sought to foster strategic consensus to tackle our nation's most pressing challenges. To learn more about CSPC's history and past programs, click here.; To learn more about Dr. Abshire's legacy, click on this photo.; Center for the Study of the Presidency and Congress; 601 13th St. NW Suite 1050N; Washington, DC 20005; Contact CSPC; Phone: (202) 872-9800; Fax: (202) 872-9811; Subscribe to our News Roundup; Powered by Squarespace

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the information provided, it can be inferred that this organization is likely a non-profit or educational institution with a focus on public policy and governance. The presence of sections like "mission," "history," "annual awards," "staff," "trustees," "counselors," and "career opportunities" suggests that the organization has a structured leadership and staffing system. The inclusion of sections like "presidential-fellows-program," "atlarge-fellows-program," and "internships" indicates that the organization offers educational and professional development opportunities. The mention of "geotechnology-competition," "commission-on-civility-effective-governance," "space-policy," "nuclear-arms-control," "book-reviews," "reports," and "policybrief" suggests that the organization engages in research, analysis, and policy advocacy on various topics related to public affairs and governance. The inclusion of social media links and contact information implies that the organization seeks to engage with the public and maintain transparency. Overall, the information provided suggests that this organization is involved in promoting informed discourse and research on public policy and governance issues."""