Twitter description: Building a generation of youth leaders who promote understanding while working to eradicate racism, anti-Semitism and all forms of discrimination.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Operation Understanding DC's mission is to build a generation of African American and Jewish community leaders who promote respect, understanding and cooperation while working to eradicate racism, anti-Semitism and all forms of discrimination. Our students are dedicated to stamping out racism and anti-Semitism wherever they encounter it. They build bridges between the Black and Jewish communities. But, they do not stop there. They use their skills, vision and passion to bring together people of all different ethnicities, races, religions, socio-economic backgrounds and sexual orientations. Our young leaders are changing the world, one person at a time. The focus of our main programs are: Experiential Program; Transformational Summer Journey; Community Outreach; and Graduation."

Paragraphs: OUDC's mission is to create a generation of community leaders who promote respect, understanding and cooperation while fighting to eradicate racism, anti-Semitism and all forms of discrimination.; Our students are dedicated to stamping out racism and anti-Semitism wherever they encounter it. They build bridges between communities. But, they do not stop there. They use their skills, vision and passion to bring together people of all different ethnicities, races, religions, socio-economic backgrounds and sexual orientations. Our young leaders are changing the world, one person at a time.; OUDC was founded in 1993 by Karen Kalish. Karen was inspired by a similar program in Philadelphia started by The Honorable William H. Gray III, then a U.S. Congressman representing Philadelphia, and George M. Ross. Since then, OUDC has worked with 26 groups of young people and empowered more than 600 leaders.; OUDC's staff, board and alumni network is a group of diverse, committed change-makers who seek to empower the next generation of social justice leaders to promote respect, understanding and cooperation while fighting to eradicate racism, anti-Semitism and all forms of discrimination.; OUDC serves as a thought leader and facilitates dialogue to advance social justice. OUDC's signature program is the Social Justice Fellowship, a transformational yearlong program for high school juniors. Our Fellows are dedicated to learning how to challenge racism, anti-Semitism and discrimination and to educating their communities on how to do the same.;

Paragraphs: Since 1993, Operation Understanding DC (OUDC) has worked with youth in Washington, D.C., Maryland and Virginia (DMV) with the goal of empowering a generation of social justice leaders who will promote respect, understanding and cooperation while fighting to eradicate racism, anti-Semitism and all forms of discrimination. OUDC's signature program is the Social Justice Fellowship, a transformational year long program for high school juniors. Our Fellows are dedicated to learning how to recognize, confront and challenge racism, anti-Semitism and discrimination where they find it and educating their communities on how to do the same. They build bridges and use their skills to bring together people of different races, ethnicities, religions, socio-economic backgrounds, sexual orientations and gender identities.; In addition, OUDC serves as a thought leader in the DMV on issues of racial equity and social justice, serving in a number of leadership roles to advance change. Through various community engagements, we also facilitate critical dialogue to propel change toward social justice and promote young people as key assets in the movement.; Each year, OUDC facilitates its year long signature program to empower the next generation of social justice leaders.; ; Self-exploration, dialogue, community-building; ; Immersive learning experiences and travel; Leadership development for the next generation of social justice leaders; Graduating Fellows are able to recognize, confront and challenge all forms of discrimination and educate others on how to do the same.;
