Twitter description: We envision bold and authentic leaders who work collectively to forge a socially just world for all people.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "Leadership and Civic Engagement complements the classroom academic experience through high impact programs and services that empower and equip students with skills, knowledge, and tools to be leaders who forge paths for positive change. We provide opportunities for critical reflection and exploration of personal values, and students learn how to successfully lead teams with an inclusive lens, facilitate change, and maximize success in a multicultural environment. Leadership and Civic Engagement creates a community where students feel at home, have a healthy sense of belonging, and feel supported as they lead, engage, and grow."

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the provided information, it can be inferred that this organization is likely a student leadership and engagement center associated with North Carolina State University (NC State). The organization's primary focus seems to be on providing resources, programs, and opportunities for students to develop their leadership skills, engage in civic and community service, and get involved in various student organizations and activities. The organization appears to offer a range of programs and initiatives, including leadership development workshops, conferences, service-learning projects, and student government involvement. Additionally, it provides support for student organizations, resources for getting organized and involved on campus, and opportunities for students to engage in social justice and advocacy efforts. The organization also collaborates with other campus departments and external partners to enhance student leadership and engagement initiatives."""
