

""Twitter handle (and profile name): ClintonSchool (Clinton School of Public Service)

Twitter description: The Clinton School of Public Service is a two-year graduate program with a "œœreal world" curriculum, integrating field service into its learning model.

Description of the organization from a third party source: "The University of Arkansas Clinton School of Public Service gives students the knowledge and experience to further their careers in the areas of nonprofit, governmental, volunteer, or private sector service. While learning valuable lessons in the classroom, Clinton School students also complete "œœhands-on" public service projects, ranging from local work in Arkansas communities to international projects on all of the world's six inhabited continents. A two-year graduate program with a "œœreal world" curriculum, the Clinton School is located on the grounds of the William J. Clinton Presidential Center and Park in Little Rock, Ark. The school embodies former President Clinton's vision of building leadership in civic engagement and enhancing people's capacity to work across disciplinary, racial, ethnic, and geographical boundaries."

Scraped text from their home page of their website: Titles: Clinton School of Public Service; Search; Search

Headings: Master of Public Service; Real-World Impact; Change Through Direct Engagement; Change Through Direct Engagement; Dynamic Curriculum; Lead Transformation for Anyone; Lead Transformation for Anyone; A Vision of Service; About the Clinton School; About the Clinton School; Meet Our Alumni; Concurrent Degrees; Scholarships & Funding; Center on Community Philanthropy; Open Governance Lab; Sign Up for our Community Newsletter; University of Arkansas Partners

Paragraphs: Start Your Application; Start Your Application; Start Your Application; Start Your Application; The Clinton School is increasing its number of merit-based scholarship opportunities available for Fall 2024 enrollment.; Intensive experiential learning has defined the Clinton School from its founding, and our field service projects go far beyond conventional internships.; The MPS prepares you to lead more responsive, resilient communities and organizations.; In 2004, President Bill Clinton articulated a vision for a distinctive - and distinctly relevant - graduate preparation.; Clinton School alumni consistently report that the relationships they form during their program are among the most enduring and rewarding they've ever made.; The Clinton School's Master of Public Service degree is grounded in an unshakeable belief: our common humanity is a powerful force for transformative, sustainable change.; "*" indicates required fields;
?document.getElementById("ak_js_1").setAttribute("value", (new Date()).getTime());
The Clinton School of Public Service at the University of Arkansas was founded to equip future leaders from all walks of life to be a transformational force for the public good.;

Student ResourcesFaculty & Staff Resources; (C) Copyright 2024 Clinton School of Public Service | Privacy Policy | Nonprofit Website by Wired Impact

Scraped text from their about page of their website: Titles: About - Clinton School of Public Service; Search; Search

Headings: About; Real World Curriculum; University of Arkansas System Member; Office of Admissions; Sign Up for our Community Newsletter; University of Arkansas Partners

Paragraphs: Start Your Application; Start Your Application; Start Your Application; Start Your Application; Home / About; The Clinton School of Public Service at the University of Arkansas, the first in the nation to offer a Master of Public Service, gives students the knowledge and experience to further their careers in the areas of nonprofit, governmental, volunteer, or private sector service.; While learning valuable lessons in the classroom, Clinton School students also complete "hands-on" public service projects, ranging from local work in Arkansas communities to international projects on all of the world's six inhabited continents.; A two-year graduate program with a "real world" curriculum, the Clinton School is located on the grounds of the William J. Clinton Presidential Center and Park in Little Rock, Ark. The school embodies former President Clinton's vision of building leadership in civic engagement and enhancing people's capacity to work across disciplinary, racial, ethnic, and geographical boundaries.; Clinton School students come from many different backgrounds, with public service interests and experience ranging from Peace Corps, AmeriCorps, and military veterans to medical, business, and nonprofit professionals. Whether your passion is education policy, health care, legal issues, corporate responsibility, the environment, or the fight against poverty and hunger, the Clinton School can give you the skills and experiences necessary to make a difference.; The Clinton School was established by the University of Arkansas Board of Trustees on January 29, 2004, as a new academic institution within the University of Arkansas System. Since its inception, the Clinton School has been a collaborative effort among its three accredited sponsoring institutions - the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville (UAF), the University of Arkansas at Little Rock (UALR), and the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences (UAMS).; Each campus brings a wealth of resources to the partnership, including a history of scholarship and academic integrity, with specialty faculties that provide an instant infusion of excellence into the UACS teaching program. Additionally, the Clinton School offers concurrent degree programs and elective course offerings through its partners in the system.; Learn more about the Master of Public Service degree program and Clinton School Online.; Learn more about the Clinton School's three for-credit field service experiences.; Do you have questions about the Clinton School's Master of Public Service degree? Contact the Office of Admission.; "*" indicates required fields; `document.getElementById("ak_js_1").setAttribute("value", (new Date()).getTime());`; The Clinton School of Public Service at the University of Arkansas was founded to equip future leaders from all walks of life to be a transformational force for the public good.; Student ResourcesFaculty & Staff Resources; (C) Copyright 2024 Clinton School of Public Service | Privacy Policy | Nonprofit Website by Wired Impact

Scraped text from their mission page of their website: Titles: NA

Headings: NA

Paragraphs: NA

Scraped text from their history page of their website: Titles: History of the Clinton School - Clinton School of Public Service; Search; Search

Headings: History of the Clinton School; About; Connect With Us; Sign Up for our Community Newsletter; University of Arkansas Partners

Paragraphs: Start Your Application; Start Your Application; Start Your Application; Start Your Application; Home / About / History of the Clinton School; The Clinton School of Public Service was officially established by the University of Arkansas System Board of Trustees on January 29, 2004. Just eight days later, the school was approved to operate the nation's first Master of Public Service degree by the Arkansas Department of Higher Education.; The planning for the school, however, began early in President Bill Clinton's second term.; In 1997, a planning team for the school was formed. In addition to President Clinton, the team included Dr. B. Alan Sugg, then UA System Office President; Diane D. Blair, Professor of Political Science at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville; Pat Torvestad, then Director of Communications for the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences; and James L. Skip Rutherford III, then chairman of the board for the Clinton Foundation and eventual Dean of the Clinton School of Public Service.; The team visited Presidential Institutions across the country, including the Truman School of Public Affairs at the University of Missouri, the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, the LBJ School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas, and the Bush School of Government at Texas A&M University.; A major decision in the formation of the Clinton School was to place the school on the campus of the Clinton Presidential Library rather than an existing college campus. Utilizing the unique resources of a presidential library, the Clinton School was initiated as a learning destination for people motivated to serve others as advocates, community leaders, politicians, and directors within the public and private sectors.; A defining characteristic of the Clinton School and its MPS degree was a heavy focus on field service learning. From the beginning, each Clinton School student was required to complete three distinct projects: the team-based Practicum, an International Public Service Project (IPSP), and a final Capstone project. The school wanted to utilize a style of learning that would integrate theory and practice, in a process of action and reflection.; Another unique aspect of the school's MPS degree is that it was developed and accredited as a collaboration of three primary campuses of the University of Arkansas: the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, and the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences.; Each campus brings a wealth of resources to the partnership, including a history of scholarship and academic integrity, with specialty faculties that provide an instant infusion of excellence into the Clinton School curriculum. Additionally, during the 2006-07 academic year, the Clinton School established concurrent degree programs in law, business, and public health - each the first of their kind - through its UA System partner institutions.; Senator David Pryor served as the school's inaugural Dean. Dr. Tom Bruce, a Professor of Health Policy and Management and Dean of the UAMS College of Medicine, was appointed by Suggs to guide the launch of the school and served as the Clinton School's first Academic Dean.; "The Clinton School will reflect the values and principles of the University of Arkansas," Bruce said. "Its clear commitment is to be an intellectual crossroads, a place of scholarship and progressive studies in applied public policy and human relations ... Public service is at the heart of our nation's betterment."; The Clinton School officially opened its doors in the Fall of 2004 and enrolled its first class of students in Fall 2005.; At the commencement ceremony for the school's first graduating class, on December 13, 2006, President Clinton told the graduates, "I wanted to establish this school to inspire more young people to pursue careers in public service and to give them the tools to do it better, because I believe it is a noble calling ... [and that] doing it well makes a world of difference, and ... dedication to the common good is critical to meeting the challenges of the interdependent world in which the graduates will live and raise their children."; "*" indicates required fields;

 document.getElementById("ak_js_1").setAttribute("value", (new Date()).getTime());
 The Clinton School of Public Service at the University of Arkansas was founded to equip future leaders from all walks of life to be a transformational force for the public good.;
 Student ResourcesFaculty & Staff Resources; (C) Copyright 2024 Clinton School of Public Service | Privacy Policy | Nonprofit Website by Wired Impact

Summaries of Links: Based solely on the information provided, it can be inferred that the Clinton School is an educational institution focused on public service. The organization has a strong online presence with various social media accounts, a website, and a YouTube channel. The website provides comprehensive information about the school's academics, admissions process, campus, centers and initiatives, and news. The Clinton School offers a Master of Public Service degree, with various courses, electives, certificate programs, and concurrent degrees available. The school also emphasizes field service, with practicum, internship, and capstone opportunities. Additionally, the Clinton School has a Center on Community Philanthropy, an Office of Field Service, and an Open Governance Lab, which engage in research, partnerships, and community outreach. The school's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion is evident through its initiatives and programs. Furthermore, the Clinton School has a strong alumni network and offers employment opportunities. Overall, the information suggests that the Clinton School is a reputable institution dedicated to preparing students for careers in public service.""